GENERAL NEWS.

(BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.)

Secretary Schurz and Indian Commissioner Hayt

NEW YORK Jan 31 —A Tribune's Washington special evidently [illegible] by well informed parties in the Indian service shows that the late Commissioner Hayt was Secretary Schurz favorite otherwise that Schurz caused the summary retirement of Commissioner J C Smith against President Hayes private wishes and insisted on Hayt's appointment, although ex President Grant had previously removed him for some cause from the board of Indian commissioners that Schurz has been persistent in his defense of Hayt against the growing opposition and alienation of the best friends of the Indians from the administration refusing to entertain complaints against him and even sending him letters transmitted by the president complaining of Hayt's mismanagement and which were pigeon-holed by the latter without further investigation by Schurz On some occasions Hayt's acts were of such a character that they attracted the attention of the president as some of his removals were of a most cruel character Men and women were turned out and subjected to great suffering, simply that he might make places for favorites and when called to account for it, explained his course in a way that was perfectly satisfactory to the secretary of the interior It is alleged in New York that there has been an understanding between Hayt and Schurz by which the latter has been able to provide offices for his own friends also under the guise of reform and that Inspector Hammond has been retained, though notoriously incompetent because he is connected with the Shermans The Tribune says it is pretty certain that before the president appoints another commissioner of Indian affairs he will require some additional recommendation to that of Secretary Schurz.

A Taker of Bribes.

NEW YORK, Jan 31 —Henry J Dudley superintendent of buildings, has been indicted for receiving bribes

Sale of Railroad Bonds

The [illegible] committee of the International and Great North Railroad Co opened bids to-day for 600,000 first mortgage six per cent gold bonds. Bids amount to $2 558 000 and the bonds were awarded to highest bidders at 96 per cent to 97

The Tendency of Wealth to New York City.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 —The Herald of to day has an article on the movement toward New York city of certain very rich men of California, in which it says that it is significant of what is probably to come to pass one of these days, not merely as to the rich men of California but as to all the very rich men of the United States. This city is the inevitable home of all such persons, simply because it is the financial capital of the country. In the acts of the California millionaires [illegible] probably two causes are in operation, an attraction here and repulsion from the Pacific coast. Just how the new constitution of California has operated upon the interests of capital is not generally known, but may be particularly known to these men in a very unpleasant way but whether it is or not, the spirit exhibited toward capital and capitalists in the campaign in which that institution was voted was a fair notice to rich men to betake themselves to climes where sounder ideas prevail on the subject of the relations of money and labor How much the new comers were influenced by the warning, and how much by the perception of the advantages of a residence in the national metropolis, it is not easy to determine, but each cause was perhaps important in producing the result The article referred to says that D O Mills is already five millions richer for his move J C Flood proposes establishing a branch of the Bank of Nevada here, and D. O Mills, in behalf of the Bank of California will endeavor in every possible way to prevent a successful conclusion of Flood & Co's plan and secretly by his wealth and influence, endeavor to thwart their plans

A Reverend Wretch.

NEW YORK, Jan 31 —The grand jury to day presented twenty-five indictments against Rev. Edward Cowley, manager of the shepherd's fold, charging him with starving, beating and cruelly ill-treating children in the fold. Cowley was arrested, and in default of $1000 bail was committed to jail

Ingersoll Gives an Analysis of Presidential Prospects.

CHICAGO, Jan 31 —Col R. G Ingersoll in an interview with a Journal reporter, expressed his views freely on the presidential question. He believes that Grant is practically out of the race and that the contest in the national convention will be almost entirely between Blaine and Sherman with the chances very largely in favor of the former, who he believes will be the easiest man for the republicans to elect. He believes that either Bayard, Seymour or Tilden, will receive the democratic nomination, but says that Hendricks might win if he has the boldness to play the cards which he holds

The Fusionist Secretary Delivers up the State Seal and Papers.

AUGUSTA, Jan 31 —P A Sawyer, fusionist secretary of state has yielded and under protest given up all the state property in his possession. At 2 10 P M Sawyer delivered to the republican secretary of state the state seal, returns of votes for governor, county officers, senators and representatives council records and all reports of the executive council of 1879 relating to election returns He says that he received legal advice yesterday to hold out in his position but as he was satisfied that the sheriff had a warrant for his arrest, he did not choose to make a martyr of himself, and has therefore given up his claim to the office.

Fatal Accident

[illegible], Pa, Feb 1 —An express train to-day killed Henry Grant and George Addes and severely wounded Wm Rhodes who were crossing the track in a carriage Against Grant or Blaine.

NEW YORK, Feb 1 —The independent republican central committee known as the "scratchers," last evening adopted a [illegible] against the nomination of Gen Grant or Senator Blaine.

A Very Roundabout Story About Grant and the Presidency

CINCINNATI, Jan 31.—In view of newspaper charges that Halsted of the Commercial had started a story that Gen Grant's friends had arranged to withdraw his name as a candidate for the presidency, Halstead says that there is a wide difference between this and a statement that Grant will not be a contestant for the presidency Halsted says that he is called upon to verify a report said to be traced to him, that he said that George W Childs told him that he had a letter from Gen Grant declining to be a candidate for the presidency There is no question of veracity between Mr Halsted and Mr Childs for Mr Childs never said anything of this sort and Mr. Halsted never said he did. Halsted says further that he was [illegible] in Philadelphia that there would be [illegible] try for it that Grant was not a candidate and must not be pressed to contest as [illegible] that the authorization would be [illegible] the declaration to be decisive and made [illegible] time. He has not understood that this [illegible] ment has been denied while a good deal of trouble has been taken within a few days to deny something that has never been [illegible]

Working in the Interests of the Columbia Canneries.

WASHINGTON Feb 1 —W D Hare collector of customs at Astoria is here advocating legislation for the allowance of a drawback on all tin used in the manufacture of cans whether the solder be composed of imported lead or not It appears that drawbacks are not now allowed if this is the nature of the lead used for this purpose and salmon packers are therefore compelled to use imported lead at higher prices, or else forego the benefit of any drawback on tin. A sub committee of the ways and means committee of the house have agreed to report favorably on the proposed bill.

The New Idria Mine Settled.

WASHINGTON Jan 30 —A patent was signed and delivered to day to the New Idria Mining Company for the Panoche Grande quicksilver mine in California The application of the New Idria Company had been amended so as to conform with Secretary Schurz opinion published July last Coming Elections in England.

LONDON, Jan 31 —Popular excitement in Liverpool over the approaching election for member of the house of commons to fill the vacancy caused by the death of John Lock increases daily Liberals are confident that the home rule vote estimated at 10,000 will give them the victory They also have the vote of temperance organizations and Lord Derby's local influence Conservatives declare that the bargain with home rulers will be to alienate many liberals, and that their candidate Whitly is a man of great personal popularity The contest is very keen There will be similar contests shortly at Southwark to fill a vacancy in the house of commons. Southwark has a liberal majority of 5000 on the Birmingham plan and the liberal candidate will likely be a thorough going radical Liberals Rebuked by the Government.

Wm H Smith first lord of the admiralty a liberal conservative speaking in Westminster last night condemned the disposition of certain liberal politicians to coquette with the home rulers, evidently referring to the promise of Lord Ramsay to support an inquiry into the question of home rule in the house of commons in return for which Liverpool home rulers promised him their votes

The Quarantined Steamer—Serious Charges against Capt. Berry.

SAN FRANCISCO Jan 31 —The appearance of two new cases of smallpox among the crew of the City of Peking now quarantined or the steamer Constitution has stimulated inquiry regarding the prospect of the disease affecting a lodgement in the city Dr McAllister, quarantine officer, makes the statement that Captain Berry of the City of Peking and his first officer knew that there were cases of small pox on board of the vessel at the time she came to the dock, but concealed it from him and the agent, Mr Williams In fact the doctor said that one of the victims was kept locked up in a stateroom where he could not be found Dr McCallister lays the blame for all the trouble since the ship was first released from quarantine upon the shoulders of Captain Berry, and does not appear to be willing to acknowledge that he was wanting in circumspection for allowing that officer to pull wool over his eyes It has been a badly managed business all the way through An officer of the vessel is reported to have come ashore the first night that the ship lay off Black Point and remained with his family until morning. Last Saturday night there were a number of petty officers on shore, visiting their friends and circulating about town generally They appeared to think that it was a good joke getting out of quarantine though they said it was not a difficult matter The agents of the Pacific Mail Steamship Co have suspended all the officers on board of the City of Peking from the captain down

The Penalty of Indiscretion.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan 31 —It has been ascertained that night before last the wives of the chief officer chief engineer and one other officer of the City of Peking, visited the ship staying all night The quarantine officer got wind of the transaction and yesterday morning demanded that every person on board of the vessel be brought before him All came on deck except the ladies The quarantine officer asked if there were no more and being answered that there were not taxed the officers with the presence of their wives on board which the culprits confessed The ladies were brought on deck, and were then summarily dispatched to the quarantine hulk as the penalty for indiscretion

War between Indian Tribes

On Saturday the 24th inst the California stopped at Wrangel and found an Indian war raging. To comprehend the condition of things it will be necessary to understand the Indian mode of life their tribal settlements and their methods of retaliation On the shores of Chatham strait which is a long stretch of narrow water running northward from the southern point of Baranoff Island for two hundred miles there is a settlement of the Hoochenoo tribe from which is named the famous Alaskan whisky A portion of this tribe numbering about two hundred and fifty have settled along the shore immediately adjoining the white settlement at Wrangel to the westward Fronting the whites to the eastward is the Stickeen tribe The whites have long had a Stickeen Indian employed as policeman to prevent the manufacture of hoochenoo in either ranch, in which he has been generally successful On Sunday the 11th inst Rev Dr Corliss, a missionary, found some of his Hoochenoo congregation drunk and requested the policeman to break up the stills from which they were supplied This was done without disturbance Next day the policeman's brother Charlie in attempting similar action, had his face hurt by the Hoochenoos In retaliation for this he with a party of Stickeens went to the Hoochenoo ranche and with clubs and pistols severely beat some of that tribe On the 13th the Hoochenoos sent word that they would attack Charlie's house next day and take him to the main tribe's settlement Hearing this, Charlie locked his house and went to some other part of the ranch At about 11 o'clock a band of about eighty armed Hoochenoos marched through town and on reaching Stickeen village deployed into line and advanced to the attack The Stickeens gathered to meet them and after a little skirmishing the lines approached and a volley was delivered at about one hundred yards Several were killed and a number wounded on both sides Among the killed was Toy Att, a friendly chief very much liked by the whites The Hoochenoos being closely pressed took refuge in Charlie's house and fortified it and were besieged for the remainder of the day At night they cut a hole through the side of the house and escaping returned to their own village leaving their dead behind They completely sacked the house while in it During the two succeeding days a great deal of skirmishing and desultory firing took place resulting in much damage to the white settlement several houses being struck by bullets Major R D Crittenden, deputy collector, finding that the whites were in danger summoned the citizens who formed a company enrolling about eighty men established a guard and issued orders forbidding armed Indians from approaching the limits of the white settlement and requiring them to keep out after 10 P M Previous to that Indians had been rushing through the streets with loaded guns, even threatening that they would seize the powder in the stores Crittenden then summoned chiefs of the warring tribes to his office, and in the presence of a committee who acted in concert with him, gave them to understand that strife must cease or they must fight on some other line To this they professed to assent and offered to compromise with blankets This settlement however is delayed through the illness of one of the wounded chiefs and on whose life or death everything hangs The committee having forwarded a request to Captain Beardslee of the Jamestown for men, or arms in case men could not be spared were furnished with a gatling gun and fifty stand of rifles with ammunition in charge of gunner Chas Stuart and men to work the gatling Everything is still in statu quo Several of the wounded including the chief, are still alive but will probably die It is rumored that the Hoochenoos have sent for reinforcements Much praise is given Major Crittenden and the committee for their firm and courageous action in the presence of the furious rival chiefs and for enforcing peace

Rev S H Young Presbyterian missionary has been very zealous in his efforts to quiet the disturbance, and in his anxiety to stop the fight while in progress so much exposed himself that some of his Indian friends seized him and bore him to a place of safety

Mining Operations Stopped by Cold Weather

The Stewart quartz mill has shut down owing to the severe cold after running only ten days Water having frozen in the pipes a proper cleaning up could not be made For the same reason only the aprons were washed, and from them about $1000 was procured which came down in charge of Mr Snaes of Portland Work in the tunnel has not been interrupted and the character of the rock improves as it proceeds No work is being done on any of the other ledges but preparations are made to open several more vigorously as soon as the cold abates

THE CANYONVILLE ROAD CASE

Decision by the Supreme Court

The Canyonville and Galesville Road company resp vs H W Stephens [illegible] James [illegible] Kirk and James T Gazely Jr appeal from Douglas county

SYLLABUS

A corporation organized under the general incorporation law of this state to construct a plank or clay road is authorized by law to appropriate and use any part of a public road which may be necessary and convenient in the location of such plank or clay road but the corporation does not thereby acquire the right to exclude another corporation subsequently formed for the same purpose from appropriating and using the same part of the public road when it is necessary and convenient in the location of its road

The grant of a franchise is to be strictly construed against the grantee and nothing passes by implication it is not exclusive unless expressly made so by the grant itself

OPINION BY KELLY C J

This was an action brought in the county court by respondent to recover damages from appellants for placing a toll gate across a road which it claimed as belonging to itself The appellants denied that it was the property of the respondents and alleged that it belonged to the Douglas county road company a corporation formed for the purpose of locating and constructing a road through the canyon in the southern part of Douglas county on substantially the same line as the road of the respondent They also allege in their answer that in erecting the toll gate they acted as the officers and employes of the Douglas county road company and in no other capacity A judgment was rendered in favor of respondents and the appellant took it to the circuit court upon an appeal

By agreement of the parties the action was tried by the court without a jury and as matters of fact the court found that as early as 1853 Jesse Applegate, under the superintendence of Major Alvord U S A surveyed and laid out a military road through what is known as the Canyon in the southern part of Douglas county In 1858 it was changed in some respects, and worked under the superintendence of Col Joseph Hooker acting under authority of the U S government Since that time the travel has been on the Hooker road Before the incorporation of the respondent, a corporation had been formed known as the Canyon Road Co to construct and maintain a road through the canyon It was worked by that corporation and in some places varies a short distance from the Hooker road The Canyon Road Co had for some years kept a toll gate and collected toll under an agreement with the county court of Douglas county, but by a judgment of the circuit court for Douglas county it was dissolved at the October term, 18[illegible] Before the dissolution of the Canyon road Co the respondent was incorporated for the purpose of locating constructing and maintaining a road through the canyon Prior to the 1st of October, 1873 the respondent surveyed and located its road the entire distance through the canyon upon the line and route worked and occupied by the Canyon Road Co On the 20th day of December 187[illegible] (as appears by the pleadings) the Douglas County Road Company was incorporated for the purpose of locating and constructing a road through the said canyon and at the April term 1874 of the county court of Douglas county that corporation desiring to appropriate a part of the public road running through the canyon, petitioned the county court to enter into an agreement upon the extent terms and conditions which the same might be used The county court then and there entered into an agreement with the Douglas County Road Co upon the terms and conditions by which it could appropriate and use the public road and authorize that corporation to establish a toll gate and collect certain specified tolls from the traveling public in consideration of keeping the same in good repair Afterwards on the 8th day of February 1875 the respondent made an agreement with the county court of Douglas as to the extent terms and conditions upon which the said public highway might be appropriated and used by it The court also found as a matter of fact that the Douglas County Road Co did not before entering into the agreement with the county court survey, locate or adopt any line or definite location of its road except that it surveyed or located a short route outside of the limits of the county about one half a mile in length and about five miles south of the toll gate kept and maintained by the appellants officers of the Douglas County Road Co and for its benefit.

Under this state of facts it is insisted by the respondent that inasmuch as it first surveyed and located its road through the canyon, neither the Douglas County Road Co nor any other corporation had a right to appropriate or use that part of the public road We do not so construe the sections of the statutes authorizing a corporation to make a public highway part of its corporate road At the last term of this court in the case of the Douglas County Road Company vs the Canyonville and Galesville Road Company the court said

The appellant (C. & G R Co) had a right under the law in relation to corporations to enter upon any lands between the termini of its road for the purpose of examining surveying and locating the line of it and to appropriate a strip not exceeding sixty feet in width for its road where the land belonged to private individuals and it had also the right in case it could not agree with the owners thereof as to the compensation to be paid therefor to maintain an action against such owners to have the value assessed and the land condemned and appropriated to its own exclusive use and we think that if the appellant entered upon surveyed and located any land for its road which belonged to private persons it had the exclusive right from the time of such survey and location to appropriate the same and that the respondent could not in any way interfere with such right, nor construct its road upon any such lands But it does not follow that by surveying a public highway and making it a part of its corporate road that the appellant thereby acquired the right to appropriate the same to its exclusive use Nor does it follow that the respondent (D C R Co) had no right to make the public road a part of its corporate road in the same manner as appellant The statute contemplates that in the construction of a road by a corporation it may sometimes be necessary or convenient to use parts of a highway where it passes through a defile or canyon where it is difficult to construct a road alongside of the public highway and in such cases it is provided that the public road or so much as may be necessary may be used or in the words of the statute may be appropriated by the corporation [illegible]

[illegible] the 8th section of the act referred to [illegible] so much of a public highway as might be necessary and convenient in the location [illegible] As it is under the exist[illegible]

[illegible] in the same spirit as the act of Congress Justice Field [illegible]

But it is insisted by the respondent that the Douglas County Road Co [illegible] making the agreement with the county court at the April term 1874 [illegible] any line or definite location of its road except that it surveyed and located a short route outside of the limits of the county road (the northern terminus of which was about five miles south of the toll gate in controversy) and therefore it had no right to appropriate or use that part of the public highway as a part of its corporate road nor erect the toll gate in controversy across it We do not consider it was necessary for that corporation to survey and locate any part of the line of its contemplated road between the termini thereof except so much of it as was not on the county road. In other words we hold that the Douglas County Road Co was not required by law to survey and locate that part of the public highway which it desired to appropriate to its own use It had already been surveyed and marked out as a county road and required no further designation to make it definite and certain It could as well agree with the county court without as with a survey as to the part of the public road to be appropriated by the corporation and when the agreement was made between the county court and the Douglas County Road Co the latter had a right to erect the toll gate upon any part of the public road so appropriated and to use the same according to the terms and stipulations contained in the contract

Both of these rival corporations having a right to appropriate and use the part of the public highway running through the canyon as a portion of their respective corporate roads the county court of Douglas county was authorized by law to contract with either of them to keep the public road in repair and to agree on the terms and conditions upon which the same might be appropriated and used But it was under no obligations to contract with either corporation It however did enter into an agreement in writing with the Douglas County Road Co at the April term 1874 as the court below found The validity of this contract was determined by the supreme court except as to the entry thereof upon the journal of the county court, which entry was enforced through the mandatory power of this court See Road Company vs Douglas County 5 Oregon 406.

This agreement was and is valid and binding as well upon the county court as upon the corporation with which it was made Neither has a right to violate it and neither can revoke it without the consent of the other party [illegible]

In pursuance of this contract the Douglas County Road Co was authorized to erect the toll gate which is the subject of this litigation and to collect tolls thereat. The appellants were acting in the capacity of officers and employes of this corporation in doing the acts complained of by the respondent and were justified in their acts.

Upon the findings of fact in the circuit court the judgment of that court is reversed and it is instructed to enter a judgment in favor of the appellant with costs and disbursements

MONDAY MORNING FEB 1880

A PERSONAL PHASE OF THE TAX QUESTION

THE OREGONIAN it appears has deeply offended Mr Wm Reid of the Oregon and Washington savings bank by having published a letter on the subject of taxation of indebtedness (valuations of property) in which it was stated that his company he represents holds a large amount of mortgages on Oregon property while the notes being held in Dundee Scotland are of course not returned for taxation in Oregon. To this statement Mr Reid offered us a long letter in reply which we willingly printed. The substance of this reply was first that all the notes taken by the company were now made payable in Oregon though prior to 1877 they were not and secondly a statement as to taxes paid by the several banks of this city which inferentially placed the bank of Ladd & Tilton and the first national bank in a false position. To his statement both of those banks have made reply. Now comes Mr Reid with a communication to the Evening Telegram asserting that the first statement relative to the bank which he represents was a malicious one that the writer knew it to be false and that THE OREGONIAN ought to have submitted it to him with inquiry as to its correctness before publishing it. Now we take the liberty to say to Mr Reid and to the public that the original communication which referred to his bank was not a malicious one neither did the writer as he assures us know it to be false nor did THE OREGONIAN print it out of any unkindness toward Mr Reid or his bank. It is known very generally that the notes given to the company were formerly made payable at Dundee and the writer who is charged with malice and falsehood—as well as many others—did not know that the rule had been changed. Mr Reid is hardly justified in flying into a passion to denounce or deny a practice which he admits his company followed up to two years ago. THE OREGONIAN must also assure Mr Reid that in a matter of this kind the discussion of which is a legitimate subject of public interest it cannot submit to him for inspection, approval or denial, what is offered it for publication. He may insist on that from an organ which requires "loans of a peculiar kind, but not from an independent and self respecting newspaper. The communication which he denounces came to us in good faith, and was printed in good faith. There was no thought of doing Mr Reid or the bank he represents any injustice. Reference was made to his company by the writer solely for the purpose of illustrating the imperfections of our system of making valuations for taxes. It appears, however, that the writer was in error in the supposition that the notes taken by the company were still made payable in Dundee, as they were up to 1877, and that is all. When Mr Reid offered his communication in reply, THE OREGONIAN printed it, although it contained statements which this paper knew well enough misrepresented, by inference or implication, the affairs of the bank of Ladd & Tilton and the first national. But Mr Reid's name was appended, and as he is a well known and responsible person, his article was inserted. As THE OREGONIAN had not asked Mr Reid whether it might publish the original communication or not, neither likewise did it refer his letter to Ladd & Tilton and to the first national bank to see whether his (Mr Reid's) statements were correct or otherwise, or to ascertain if they would approve its publication. The sum of this whole matter is, that Mr Reid has been quite too hasty and inconsiderate in his indignation. Complaining that his bank has been misrepresented, he rushed into print with misrepresentation of others, and finally has published a letter through which his wrath exhales against THE OREGONIAN because it admitted into its columns a communication whose chief error was in the supposition that his company was still doing business as it had been doing it up to two years ago. Mr Reid also says that his company are not bound to pay any taxes in Oregon as there is no law to compel them to do so; but nevertheless that they voluntarily pay on $100,000. We take it, however, that it is about as serious a mistake on Mr Reid's part to assume that there is no law to compel his company to pay taxes here as it would be on the part of the public to imagine that his company are doing business here out of pure benevolence to our people, and anxiously seeking chances to pay taxes out of regard for the public good. Probably the taxes paid by the company are not so entirely ex gratia after all, as we see that the assessor has raised their valuation from $14,525 in 1878 to $100,000 in 1879. It would hardly be safe, as we should judge, to draw the conclusion that this increase was made because the company, through their manager demanded it, and refused to be happy unless it was done.

SMALL AND LARGE FARMS

A writer in the January number of the Atlantic Monthly, from whose article we have heretofore quoted, argued that consolidated capital which controls many of the railroads the coal fields and no small share of commercial and manufacturing interests of the country is now invading agriculture and threatening to swallow up the small farms in big ones, cultivated by machinery at such reduced cost that the small farmers will be unable to compete, and will sink to the condition of agricultural laborers or tenants of great landlords. To sustain this view it was asserted that there had been for years a steady growth of the number of farms of 1000 acres and upwards in thirteen of the principal agricultural states. A writer in the St. Paul Pioneer Press attacks these figures and the conclusions drawn from them. He undertakes to show that to obtain these results and sustain a theory wrong conclusions are drawn from the census reports and to support his position he compiles this table showing in acres the average size of farms

	1850	1860	1870
Illinois	158	146	128
Indiana	136	124	112
Iowa	185	165	134
Kansas		171	148
Michigan	129	113	101
Minnesota	184	149	139
Nebraska		226	169
Nevada		637	00
Ohio	125	114	111
Wisconsin	148	114	114
Texas	94	591	301

These figures show on the whole a subdivision of farms and reduction of their average size. It is asserted that the Atlantic writer based his conclusions of whatever fragmentary facts he could gather rejecting everything which did not harmonize with the theory he had taken it upon him to maintain. And it would appear indeed that he had hung theory on a very slender thread of fact when it is known that in twelve states out of the thirteen enumerated by him there were in 1870 only 3 [illegible] farms of 1000 acres and upwards in a total of 35 [illegible] farms in the same states of [illegible] [illegible] 1000 acres and upwards to 1333 small farmers. Examination of the census returns [illegible] this view of the subject certainly does not discover any alarming tendency towards absorption of small farms by large holdings.

THEOLOGICAL DISPUTATION

The history of all systematic theology properly begins with the great controversy of Augustine and Pelagius in the first quarter of the fifth century. Since that time two systems of theological doctrine have co-existed in the Christian church. To follow this history down to the present time would be to trace the controversy between a systematic theology insisting with vigor and rigor on its formal articles and dogmas and the general principle of freedom and fellowship in [illegible] The doctrines of the first have never been clearly defined—indeed are not susceptible of ready and precise definition. They may be said to be the general doctrines of the Christian church as modified to some extent and in different degrees at different times by the spirit of dissent and the spirit of [illegible]. Calvinism is the great expression [illegible] Protestant confessions of systematic theology. It is the system of Augustine developed into more rigid and logical form and infused into the creeds of all Protestant churches and into the life of modern nations through the instrumentality of John Calvin the reformer of Geneva [illegible]

Calvinism as Dr Lindsley [illegible] does not live as an active force as it once did giving the law of belief and tolerating no dissent. It lives rather as a religious habit than as a vital power. The world is losing sight of the dogmas of systematic and the pedantries of scholastic theology. All know and can testify how even within the short space of twenty years the old system has broken up. Views regarding religion are undergoing great and rapid change. We can hardly think that the cause of true religion will suffer if religion itself come to be thought less a matter of mere assent to theological formula and more a matter of personal conduct with each individual. There should be more in religion and there is more in it than to make broad our phylacteries and keep on threshing over and over the chaff of old theological disputation.

One of the survivals of Calvinism curiously enough is in the tendency of the time toward the hard philosophy of materialism. And not so strangely either for Calvinism is fate and destiny that is predestination applied to views of the relations between God and man. It binds God fast in his own laws and holds man under conditions from which he cannot escape. It thus virtually destroys human free-will, without doing away with human responsibility. Philosophers of materialism argue that man is controlled wholly by his surroundings that he is the mere creature and sport of forces whose iron chain he cannot break that for example in a given state of society a certain number will commit suicide or sink into vice and crime because that is the law of destiny. Alike repugnant, or even more repugnant, to the reason and conscience of multitudes is "a theological system which represents man as sent into the world under a curse, incurably wicked, wicked by the constitution of his flesh and wicked by eternal decree—as doomed unless exempted by special grace which he cannot merit, or by any effort of his own obtain to live in sin while he remains on earth and to be eternally miserable when he leaves it, born so depraved that he is unable to keep the commandments and yet justly liable to punishment for breaking them. The hard philosophy of materialism never gave us anything more cold and hopeless.

Yet this theology does assert that "the eternal and immutable plan of God has constituted man a free agent, and consequently can never interfere with the exercise of that freedom of which it is itself the foundation." Nevertheless in the case of the Creator "certain foreknowledge of all events from the absolute beginning virtually involves the predetermination of each event without exception." Then by contradiction which never has satisfied the world, and is further than ever from satisfying it now it is insisted that this predetermination of events does not interfere with the free will of the creature. It is believed that there are few persons now, even in church relations, who do not regard these things as theological paradoxes, without use either for reproof admonition or doctrine. Among those greatest in intellect and purest in devotional religion have been men who never were satisfied with such a theological system. Milton in his great poem, when he puts an argument into the mouth of the Almighty on the subject, shows how little he himself was satisfied and convinced

What if I foreknew?
Foreknowledge had no influence on their fault
Which had no less proved certain, unforeknown

Mankind, and fortunately as it seems to us, now pays little attention to these things. These are regarded as the dry husks of theology. In any one of the simple exhortations and doctrines of the gospels in which attention to the lesson of personal conduct is urged and pressed upon the children of men, there is more for the redemption of the world than in all the schools ever erected to teach a systematic theology, formulated in contentions between logomachists like Augustine and Pelagius. Serve us and Calvin

Under the postal laws the salaries of postmasters are fixed according to the cash receipts of each office. For every office the receipts of which entitle the postmaster to $1000 and over the president appoints the postmaster. When the salary is less than $1000 the postmaster general makes the appointment. The business and development of some of the newer states as shown in the number of offices where postmasters are appointed by the president are something remarkable. Kansas has 55 such offices while Missouri has but 5[illegible] and Virginia only 25. Nebraska has more than Georgia and Colorado more than Tennessee. Of these offices New York has a larger number than any other state the total being 192. Illinois is second, with 162. Then follow Pennsylvania, Ohio, Massachusetts and Iowa each in the order named.

Diphtheria is said to have extended from Egypt to Asia Minor about 1500 years ago having existed in the former country 200 years previously. Spain Italy and Sicily were visited by it. In A. D. 321 it appeared in Rome, extended to Holland as an epidemic in 1737. France as early as 1818 and so up to 1835 was dangerous and showed itself in England Canada and the United States in 1856. The German empress offers a large prize for the best essay on the essence of the disease and mode of treatment.

It is estimated that the increase of population along the line of the Northern Pacific railroad in Dakota during the year 1[illegible] was 25,732. There were 36,[illegible] acres of wheat along the road in 18[illegible] which was 31,1[illegible] more than in 18[illegible]. The ground broken in 18[illegible] to be cultivated (nearly all in wheat in 1880) is about 1[illegible],000 acres. Of the crop of 18[illegible] the road had delivered at Duluth Minneapolis and St Paul down to December 1st about 1,2[illegible],000 bushels. The total product [illegible] is estimated at [illegible],000 bushel

Jail Birds Foiled—Saturday afternoon an ineffectual attempt was made by several of the prisoners confined in the county jail to effect an escape. So well were their plans laid that had not the attempt been timely discovered the jail birds would have gained their freedom. The leading spirit in the attempt was one George Moody who has been held to answer on a charge of larceny. He was assisted by a fellow prisoner named Simpson who was arrested a few days ago charged with robbing a trunk at the North Home. By some means Moody obtained possession of a large pocket knife the long blade of which was converted into a saw. With the serrated edge Moody succeeded in sawing off one of the iron bars used as a brace in the cell. This bar furnished a very effective instrument with which it was hoped they could dig their way out to liberty. In the afternoon these worthies commenced operations, as at that hour their work would be less likely to be discovered. They commenced delving in the wall near the heavily barred window in the south corridor. Work did not proceed without noise which attracted attention of Deputy Sheriff Church and Jailer Barry. They went into the corridor at once and ordered all the prisoners into the cells. On looking along the wall the bar of iron, knife and fragments of brick and scattered mortar revealed the whole business. Moody confessed that he had secured the iron bar from his bunk but refused to tell who did the rest of the work but there is good reason to believe that Morrison was his assistant. Jack Williams, who is now in jail awaiting sentence for a murderous assault on a man in this city, and Frank Halleston arrested for robbing a store, both occupy the cell with Moody. However, when questioned the prisoner denied having assisted in the attempted escape. Both Moody and Morrison were heavily ironed, and will not be allowed another opportunity to break jail. Had they succeeded in making a hole in the wall twenty one prisoners could have easily escaped.

Death of Jack O'Donnell—Jack O Donnell died Sunday morning at half past 5 o'clock, at St. Vincent's hospital. It will be remembered that Jack O Donnell or "Red Jack" by which name he was more familiarly known, had his leg badly fractured by the falling of the Bremen beer hall on the day of the great wind storm. He was taken to St Vincent's hospital, where everything was done by skillful doctors to save the limb and alleviate his suffering. Both bones being badly shattered and the flesh severely lacerated, it was doubtful whether the leg could be saved or not. Gangrene set in, followed by hemorrhage. The doctors deemed it necessary to amputate the leg. The operation was performed one week ago last Saturday. For several days after the operation the wound seemed to do well, except that there was a tendency to sloughing, and not sufficient vitality in the stump to heal up. On Friday a secondary hemorrhage took place, which was soon stopped, and again yesterday morning at 2 o'clock the artery commenced to bleed. Drs Jones and Rex were telephoned for, who hastened to the patient's bedside and found him exceedingly low. However they succeeded in ligating the artery, but Jack was very weak from the loss of blood and died soon after the hemorrhage was stopped. The body was conveyed to his home, corner M ll and Water streets, from where it will be buried to day.

Leg Broken—Master Clement O'Brien one of the messenger boys employed by the Portland Telephone and Telegraph Company, met with a very distressing accident at eight o'clock Saturday afternoon. The lad had just mounted the little grey pony in front of the telegraph office and was starting up the street on some important errand. While turning around the pony slipped and fell and rolled over. Master O'Brien's left leg was caught under the animal and sustained a severe compound fracture below the knee. He was conveyed at once to his house on Fifth street between Market and Clay. Medical aid was summoned and the fractured limb set. The lad is aged about 14 years and is one of the most faithful and efficient messengers employed by the company.

Bureau Saint "Caithloch"—We are pleased to note the arrival of this magnificent vessel in our port. The laugh of the genial Capt Phillips will be again heard in the land and his many friends will rejoice when they see that he is not only as lusty and happy as of yore, but that he is this time accompanied by his worthy better half. Last year the vessel it will be remembered, made the quickest passage to Rio and on record, viz 88 days from pilot to pilot, thus stamping her as one of the fastest, if not the fastest vessel afloat. She is under charter to Rodgers, Meyer & Co and will have quick despatch, so that she will get away this year the same time as last and will in all probability make another very fast passage.

Died—A dispatch was received here yesterday from San Luis Obispo, California, conveying the sad intelligence of the death at that place of Miss Katie Showers. The deceased was a daughter of Mr Wm. Showers, the county treasurer of Multnomah and was aged 24 years. She left Portland some time ago in the hope of benefiting her rapidly failing health. The change expected and so much hoped for, failed to come, and after lingering for some weeks Miss Showers passed peacefully away to the world beyond, at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. She was a very estimable young lady, and her death is greatly regretted by all who knew her. The remains will be brought to Portland for interment.

Mails for the West Side—Service will be established on the west side road to Corvallis in about ten days. The present arrangement of morning mails via the east side to Albany and thence by stage, will, however, be continued. All matter mailed in this city between 6 A. M. and 1 30 P M for Corvallis and way points will be sent by the afternoon train. Matter mailed at Corvallis during the day for Portland will be sent on the west side morning train, and will reach this city five hours earlier than under the present arrangement. An office will be established at Wells' station, and others as the needs of the country require.

Became a Law.—At the last meeting of the common council an ordinance was passed increasing the salary of the superintendent of the streets to $1800 per annum. Mayor Thompson had not signed the ordinance nor returned it to the council with his objections, up to 12 o'clock Saturday. The time fixed by the council in which the ordinance should have been signed or vetoed having expired by limitation, it has become a law. In this manner Mr. Braden, the efficient superintendent of streets gets an increase of salary.

What a Whopper!—The writer of the following paragraph, which appeared in a recent number of the New York World is entitled to wear the medal as the boss prevaricator: "At Blakely lle, Oregon, recently a society wedding took place, the church being filled with a large and fashionable congregation. The names of the parties concerned attracted great attention from their singularity. Col John Burnard married Eleanor Crow. Rev Dr Robin united the couple in marriage."

Nehalem Road—Active steps are being taken by the people of St Helens to reopen the wagon road from that village to the Nehalem valley. A good road was opened between the two points last season but the recent violent storm threw many trees across it. These trees are to be cut out of the way immediately, several hundred dollars having been contributed for that purpose by the people of Columbia county and the merchants of Portland.

Home Insurance Co of N Y—Mr Charles L Dimon, special agent for the Home Insurance Co, has just established a branch agency in this city. The company he represents propose to comply with the laws of the state by depositing in the bank, as required $50 000. Applications for appointment as agent at Portland and other points throughout the state solicited. Address Chas. L D mon care First National Bank Portland.

New Uniforms.—The messengers of the Northwestern Telephone Co made their appearance Saturday in gorgeous new uniforms. The suits are of heavy blue black cloth trimmed with gold cord and braid and caps to match and are quite as rich and handsome as the uniforms of steamship officers.

Will Remove—John A Child the druggist in the Centennial block will remove this week to the room corner below on First and Morrison, formerly occupied by Mrs H Ach.

Oregon Conference Minutes—The printed minutes of the Oregon Annual Conference of the M. E. Church, which was held in Portland last August from the 20th to the 25th inclusive, has been laid on our table. It is a neat pamphlet of [illegible] pages and contains much interesting statistical and other matter connected with the church. The typographical work was done by George Himes and is very creditable.

Hymeneal—Mr [illegible] ton of the firm of [illegible] was married [illegible] Miss Lettie W [illegible] [illegible] ceremony took place [illegible] the [illegible] and was performed by Rev [illegible] Mr and Mrs [illegible] friends [illegible] who join in [illegible] life of peace and happiness.

German Theater—The second performance of [illegible] Turn Halle last night by the [illegible] ladies and gentlemen of the [illegible] of the Turn Verein drew a packed house. The performance was [illegible] more spirited than that of two weeks ago and was fully up to the standard of good professional [illegible].

German School Ball—The ball at Turn halle to night for the benefit of the Independent German school promises to be a great attendance. The school is somewhat in debt, met with losses to fences etc during the late storm and needs the money to be realized at the ball for improvements on the school building.

U S Circuit Court—Judge Deady will announce a decision this morning in the U S v Quivey on the demurrer to the supplemental answer and also upon the demurrer to the plea in abatement in Cabot v Barnes et al.

Contract Awarded—The contract for raising the East Portland Baptist church which was blown over on the 7th ultimo has been let to Mr G O Allen who commenced work Saturday morning.

HEAVY ASSESSMENTS

Certain persons themselves mostly irresponsible who pay no taxes nor ever will are fond of making the assertion that the wealthy men of this city manage to escape in great degree the burdens of taxation. The following list embracing twenty taxpayers of the county shows the assessment of 1879 as compared with that of 1878. The increase on these twenty names amounts to $[illegible]. The result shows an effort on the part of the assessor to do his duty.

AMUSEMENTS

"Engaged" To night—It will, no doubt be a welcome announcement to the amusement loving people of Portland that New Market Theater will be reopened to-night with a good company and that an interesting season is promised for the remainder of the winter. The piece announced is "Engaged" one of those pleasing society plays from the fertile pen of W S Gilbert. Mr Geo D Chaplin who will assume the leading character brings with him an excellent reputation as a scholarly, manly actor and the company, judging the principal members by their former efforts on the boards of New Market and the encomiums of the San Francisco press, will make in every respect a worthy support. The orchestra will be increased and made one of the features of the theater. It is to be hoped that the opening night will be a rouser.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Messrs DuBois & King have secured the agency of the well known Marvin & Urban's safes and invite a call from purchasers.

John Kearney having just purchased an entire new outfit is now prepared to do a general express business; All orders left with him will be promptly attended to charges moderate. By strict attention to business he hopes to secure a fair share of public patronage.

Olds & King the Third street dry goods men, announce in another column the commencement of their second annual clearance sale. This house has never tried to mislead the public but has performed every promise made, and buyers can depend on this sale being conducted strictly on the square.

CARD OF THANKS.

The ladies of the Relief Society desire to make special mention of their appreciation of and gratitude for, the excellent music furnished by the Washington Guard band, at the party Friday evening, at Turn Halle. The music was first class, and was universally commended by the large crowd in attendance who thoroughly enjoyed it as one of the most important features of the evening. However it was furnished free not a single member of the band being willing to receive any pay. Under the circumstances the gift to the society is no ordinary one.

[illegible] who are [illegible] are the only ones concerned with the questions what is God? what [illegible] of interest does he take in our [illegible] to what extent does he concern himself with the progress of souls into eternity? [illegible] he formed any purpose [illegible] is his purpose flexible or unchargeable? He is sovereign in the universe is he sovereign in salvation? This question has created [illegible] [illegible] the gospel [illegible] [illegible] in its application [illegible] the controversy.

[illegible] of salvation [illegible] [illegible] the other [illegible] who maintain that this [illegible] the mind that [illegible] [illegible] by a new [illegible] which regulates the whole [illegible]. It is summed up in the [illegible] which is grateful [illegible] [illegible] creatures. They who hold that he is a sovereign in salvation contend that their view is the only consistent [illegible] that agrees with all parts of scripture as well as with all we know of God in the universe [illegible] and moral.

They claim that their view is the only [illegible] which harmonizes all parts of scripture with all parts of salvation from the first bestowment of its unbought gifts in all the progress of the life which begins here and never ends. They claim also that it is the only one which harmonizes the doctrine of scripture with human experience. They affirm that the teachings of the new testament can be fully and symmetrically explained only upon this single principle—that God is sovereign in salvation from first to last.

And so abounding and limitless are His mercies that He has provided in them a sufficiency for the whole world while He leaves men free to accept or reject all. He preserves and guards the freedom of men so that their liberty of choice is jealously maintained and all in entire harmony with His operations so that the responsibility of souls under the gospel is increased rather than diminished.

Among the advocates of the sovereignty of God in salvation and the freedom of men in accepting, or rejecting it the most distinguished have been the inspired apostles especially St Paul. And among the uninspired Augustine in the early church and after him John Calvin. First these advocates were called Pauliniams. Centuries passed and a new term Augustinians was heard. Then came the reformation of the sixteenth century and they were known as Calvinists. The term since then and now is commonly applied to those who explain the gospel in its origin and efficiency both in heart and life upon the one principle of the sovereignty of God. These advocates have found support among the most powerful thinkers in the world some of whom had no access to the sacred scriptures.

On the other hand their views have been denounced by many influential minds who reject the gospel itself and with it the sovereignty of God in everything. Large denominations of Christians have also rejected it. Many writers have assailed it with ridicule and caricature and passionate declamation, not scrupling to misrepresent it or those who hold it. The character of its defenders has been pertinaciously assailed and calumniated.

This widespread misrepresentation of the doctrine, and those who have upheld it has produced an impression in some quarters that its power in the church has terminated. It has been pronounced defunct. Periodically we hear Calvinism is dead.

The silence of its defenders is often misconstrued. It does not spring from a sense of weakness, but from quite the opposite feeling. They partake of the stability which the doctrine itself is calculated to impart to one who sincerely accepts it and undertakes to regulate his life according to it.

Another fact tends to keep its defenders quiet. The objections and misrepresentations have been met and answered a thousand times and the result seems always to be an illustration of the couplet

"Convince a man against his will
He's of the same opinion still."

In considering the question Is Calvinism Dead? It will be useful to examine the character and opinions and life and influence of him from whom the term is derived.

In my studies of any subject I have always sought to get a view of every side of it. I have followed the admirable suggestion audi alteram partem (hear the other side) and have not hesitated to quote the opinions of opponents.

I shall observe the spirit of this maxim in this lecture. I shall refer to documents of unquestioned authority and views of men who are not the advocates of Calvin's religious sentiments, I shall let them speak. I shall not quote slanderers, who are too passionate or too stupid to understand what they are abusing, but I shall summon fair minded men who are willing to do justice to an opponent.

I gather the facts of Calvin's life from a great variety of sources. He was born of French Catholic parents. His father was an educated man and strict in his morals. His mother was devout and withal beautiful. The son received the best education that Europe could afford in the universities of Orleans Bourges and Paris and distinguished himself by his rapid progress.

At the age of nineteen and afterwards he often conducted the recitation for an absent professor with great satisfaction to all but himself for he was never fond of display or notoriety but rather courted the retirement of his study. In the judgment of his contemporaries both Catholic and Protestant, he left the university the most promising literary man of the age—an age that could justly claim some of the brightest lights of modern times. He might have attained to the highest honors in France if not in all Europe, if his religious convictions had not undergone a radical change.

This change was ushered in through darkness struggle and distress. He adhered tenaciously to the Catholic church as Luther did and strove in vain to secure in its masses and penances the peace he sought. He was driven only to a deeper sense of sin and guilt.

He resorted to an earnest study of the holy scriptures and while thus engaged the knowledge of salvation through Christ like a bright light from heaven burst upon his mind. He forsook all his brilliant prospects to follow and serve the crucified Lord.

I quote from the work of German rationalists and liberal thinkers who have published some of Calvin's works as reported by Prof Schaff.

There never was a change of conviction purer in motive more radical in character more fruitful and permanent in result. It bears a striking resemblance to that still greater event near Damascus which transformed a fanatical pharisee into an apostle of Jesus Christ. And indeed Calvin was not unlike St Paul in his intellectual and moral constitution and the apostle of sovereign grace and evangelical freedom never had a more sympathetic expounder than the Reformer of Geneva.

With this step Calvin renounced all prospects of a brilliant career upon which he had already entered and exposed himself to the danger of persecution and death.

After this change Calvin wrote the inaugural address for his friend Nicholas Cop a learned physician and scholar who had been chosen rector of the university of Paris. It advocated church reform on the basis of the pure gospel. Its delivery created a great excitement.

It was ordered to be publicly burned. The recently installed rector was warned and fled. Calvin was let down from a window in a basket and escaped from Paris in the garb of a vine dresser. He wandered about through France for years preaching the gospel and comforting persecuted Christians.

Next he fled to Strasburg. At this place and at Basle he was confirmed by intercourse with leading reformers with whom he entered into the [illegible] friendship. Here he published the first edition of his Institutes of the Christian Religion dedicated to Francis I the king of France.

Next we find him in Italy at Ferrara where he leaves the indelible impress of his piety and genius.

[illegible] by the [illegible] he leaves Italy and passing through Geneva he was persuaded by Wm Farrell an eminent reformer and a fellow countryman to remain and engage in the work of the gospel. This was the turning point in Calvin's life. A writer says: "Farrell [illegible] great [illegible] he gave Geneva [illegible] greater one when he gave Calvin to Geneva." It was then a city of only twelve or fifteen thousand [illegible] but within its narrow limits it was to become the center of very [illegible] every problem [illegible]

Columbia River Bar.

The subject is [illegible] in the minds of the people of Oregon to a great extent and reminds one of the time when Capt Eads constructed the jetties in the Mississippi river. But all these topics of the day are thrown in the shade since the introduction of the celebrated Oregon Kidney Tea. The first case it has failed to cure in complaints of the kidneys and bladder is yet to be heard from.

Over-Exertion, either of body or mind produces debility and disease. The usual remedy is to take some stimulant the effect of which is the same as giving a tired horse the whip instead of oats. The true way is to fortify the system with a permanent tonic like the Peruvian Syrup (a protoxide of iron) which gives strength and vigor to the whole system.

THE DEATH-RATE OF
Our country is getting to be fearfully alarming the average of life being lessened every year without any reasonable cause, death resulting generally from the most insignificant origin. A this season of the year especially a cold is such a common thing that in the hurry of every day life we are apt to overlook the dangers attending it and often find too late that a Fever or Lung trouble has set in. Thousands lose their lives in this way every winter, while had Boschee's German Syrup been taken a cure would have resulted and a large bill from a doctor been avoided. For all diseases of the Throat and Lungs Boschee's German Syrup has proven itself to be the greatest discovery of its kind in medicine. Every Druggist in this country will tell you of its wonderful effect. Over 950 000 bottles sold last year without a single failure known.

An opinion [illegible] suffering [illegible]

WILL YOU LINGER OR DIE?

Easy as it is to be sick just so easy is it to be well by availing yourself of the opportunity that is now offered the sick by

DR. D. HALL McLENNAN,

Professor of Diseases of the Mind and Nervous System formerly of Hall ck's Medical Institute, Boston Mass, now permanently located at corner of Second and Ash Streets Portland Oregon two blocks from O S N Co's landing at foot of Ash St.

DR. McLENNAN has by his unwearied attention and extraordinary success gained a reputation which calls patients from all parts of the country to obtain his advice. And without boasting, he can say that probably no other physician on the Pacific Coast is treating at the present time so many cases of chronic diseases. The development of important and superior remedies and modes of cure have enabled him to succeed in thousands of cases where others have failed. The unparalleled success with which Dr McLennan has treated [illegible] and the so-called incurable cases goes to show that no one should give up in despair simply on the assertion of one, two or three physicians who had failed to effect a cure. It is with the hope of reaching many of this class that I advertise and not alone from the profit it may derive yield me, but for the real satisfaction of doing good relieving the pains of humanity and sending hope to the hearts of thousands of afflicted fellow creatures who are enduring great suffering under the erroneous impression that they are beyond human skill. These I am [illegible] shall hear of me and realize the truth of the saying that while there is life there is hope.

Startling Weakness of Men and Women

From whatever cause produced permanently and radically cured in three to six weeks—a radical change for the better noticed in three days. Old men made young and young men restored to the vigor of manhood. To those who are suffering I advise them to try me in doing so they will call that day blessed. The greatest secrecy observed. Names of such patients are not published, and only referred to by permission and by calling at my office. If you are suffering from any chronic disease, and your doctor and doctors have failed to cure you I respectfully invite you to consult me. It will cost you nothing. By my modern system of cure I am constantly receiving cases in which other methods utterly fail. Physicians having in charge cases that baffle their skill or resist the ordinary treatment will confer a blessing on such by sending them to my Medical Institution occupying the two-story building on the northeast corner of Second and Ash streets.

Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. Letters plainly written with full particulars containing a ll addressed envelope will be promptly answered.

Flattering Indorsement

From a lady well and favorably known in Portland, cured by Dr McLennan after hope of recovery had been abandoned.

Washington D C—I am entirely well and feel no more of that weakness that troubled me for years, and for which I was unable to get relief until you brought me to Dr McLennan's. He has done more for me than all the other physicians put together and that too in so short a time.
MRS MAJOR BELL.

Any information regarding this remarkable cure will be furnished by her mother (Mrs Edgar) who lives at Room No 2, Bacon's building Second St between Oak and Stark Portland.

Another Remarkable Cure

Was the case of O P Mason who suffered for years with a weak and lame back during that period could find no relief was cured by Dr McLennan in ten minutes.

NOTE—Mr Mason is well and favorably known to all citizens of Portland as one of our most successful lawyers. His office is 111 First street and can verify this statement for himself.

Success the Test of Merit—Another Remarkable Cure

This is to certify that Dr McLennan cured me of consumption and catarrh after Drs Oliver and Hatch of Astoria had pronounced my case beyond medical aid and advised me to come to Portland and go to the hospital. I came to Portland but did not go to the hospital as a friend whom I met here advised me to go to Dr McLennan. This was two months ago. I was then continually coughing up blood and matter. I have coughed none for five weeks and am fleshing up every day. I now live at 43 Stark street but my home is in Astoria. If anybody writes to me concerning my cure I will answer the same.
Respectfully E R DAILY

The following parties whose names and addresses are given below can be consulted in reference to Dr McLennan's great success. They have all been the victims of wrong doctoring and never found relief much less a cure until Dr McLennan's treated them. Mrs. Daniel Cline Scappoose Oregon gained 19 pounds in two months under Dr McLennan's treatment. She says I have never felt so well for three years as I have the last two months.

Mrs Captain Line [illegible] of the ship Tecumseh now stopping at room 7 St Charles Hotel suffered for 20 years with debility dyspepsia and chronic inflammation of the stomach. She had doctored in England and France and employed with [illegible] success some of the most eminent physicians in America. Completely cured by Dr McLennan in seven weeks.

REMOVED. THE COMPOUND OXYGEN TREATMENT FOR THE CURE OF ALL CHRONIC DISEASES.

PROF REES has fitted up offices on corner of Yamhill and First Sts.—No. 174, Room 2.

COMPOUND OXYGEN DOES NOT CURE BY THE SUBSTITUTION OF ONE DISEASE FOR ANOTHER as when drugs are taken, but by an orderly process of revitalization. In the following list will be found the diseases which have proved the most amenable to Oxygen treatment:—Consumption, Bronchitis, Laryngites Asthma. Dyspepsia in worst forms can be stopped with the Oxygen. Any fever can be stopped in 24 hours. Catarrh in the worst stages of the disease. Dyspepsia in every form, may be radically cured also Neuralgia, Nervous Headache, Scrofula, Paralysis and all Nervous Diseases.

Portland Or Jan 11, 1880—This is to certify that I have tried all kinds of Patent Medicines, which have failed as a cure in my case (I having a bad cold, which had settled on my lungs), when I was induced to try Prof Rees' Compound Oxygen Treatment, which had the desired effect in two days, and in five days' treatment was completely restored to my sound health.
JOHN ROBERTSON.

Portland Or Jan 13 1880—Having taken treatment from Prof. Rees for a severe cold in the head, so bad that I could not breathe through my nostrils, and so severe on the lungs that I could not speak, when I was forced by friends to try the Compound Oxygen, with very little faith, but the first inhalation made me breath freely, and I am convinced that it is the best and quickest method known for to cure disease and I cheerfully recommend it to all who are suffering from a Cold or Catarrh in the head.

KEATING'S COUGH LOZENGES. THE Great British Remedy. There is unquestionably no other remedy so certain in its effects. ASTHMA WINTER COUGH BRONCHITIS and DISORDERS OF THE THROAT alike yield to its influence. The highest medical testimony states no better cure for these complaints exists. Now proved by over half a century's experience. They contain no opium morphia, or any violent drug. KEATING's COUGH LOZENGES prepared by THOMAS KEATING London, Britain are sold by all druggists. n1d1awtm8p

MONDAY MORNING FEB [illegible] 1880

A PERSONAL PHASE OF THE TAX QUESTION

THE OREGONIAN it appears has deeply offended Mr. William Reid of the Oregon and Washington savings bank by having published a letter on the subject of [illegible] of indebtedness from valuations of property in which it was stated that the company he represents held a large amount of mortgages on Oregon property while the notes being held in Dundee Scotland are of course not reached for taxation in Oregon. To this statement Mr Reid offered us a long letter in reply which we willingly printed. The substance of [illegible] was first that all the notes taken by the company were now made payable in Oregon though prior to 1877 they were not and secondly a statement as to taxes paid by the several banks of this city which inferentially placed the bank of Ladd & Tilton and the first national bank in a false position. To his statement both of those banks have made reply. Now comes Mr Reid with a communication in the Evening Telegram asserting that the first statement relative to the bank which he represents was a malicious one that the writer knew it to be false and that THE OREGONIAN ought to have submitted it to him with inquiry as to its correctness before publishing it. Now we take the liberty to say to Mr Reid and to the public that the original communication which referred to his bank was not a "malicious one neither did the writer as he assures us know it to be false nor did THE OREGONIAN print it out of any unkindness toward Mr Reid or his bank. It is known very generally that the notes given to the company were formerly made payable at Dundee and the writer who is charged with malice and falsehood—as well as many others—did not know that the rule had been changed. Mr Reid is hardly justified in flying into a passion to denounce or deny a practice which he admits his company followed up to two years ago. THE OREGONIAN must also assure Mr Reid that in a matter of this kind the discussion of which is a legitimate subject of public interest it cannot submit to him for inspection, approval or denial, what is offered it for publication. He may insist on that from an organ which requires "loans of a peculiar kind but not from an independent and self respecting newspaper. The communication which he denounces came to us in good faith, and was printed in good faith. There was no thought of doing Mr Reid or the bank he represents any injustice. Reference was made to his company by the writer solely for the purpose of illustrating the imperfections of our system of making valuations for taxes. It appears, however that the writer was in error in the supposition that the notes taken by the company were still made payable in Dundee, as they were up to 1877 and that is all. When Mr Reid offered his communication in reply, THE OREGONIAN printed it, although it contained statements which this paper knew well enough misrepresented by inference or implication, the affairs of the bank of Ladd & Tilton and the first national. But Mr Reid's name was appended, and as he is a well known and responsible person, his article was inserted. As THE OREGONIAN had not asked Mr Reid whether it might publish the original communication or not, neither likewise did it refer his letter to Ladd & Tilton and to the first national bank to see whether his (Mr Reid's) statements were correct or otherwise, or to ascertain if they would approve its publication. The sum of this whole matter is that Mr Reid has been quite too hasty and inconsiderate in his indignation. Complaining that his bank has been misrepresented, he rushed into print with misrepresentation of others, and finally has published a letter through which his wrath exhales against THE OREGONIAN because it admitted into its columns a communication whose chief error was in the supposition that his company was still doing business as it had been doing it up to two years ago. Mr Reid also says that his company are not bound to pay any taxes in Oregon as there is no law to compel them to do so, but nevertheless that they voluntarily pay on $100 000. We take it, however, that it is about as serious a mistake on Mr. Reid's part to assume that there is no law to compel his company to pay taxes here as it would be on the part of the public to imagine that his company are doing business here out of pure benevolence to our people, and anxiously seeking chances to pay taxes out of regard for the public good. Probably the taxes paid by the company are not so entirely ex gratia after all, as we see that the assessor has raised their valuation from $14 525 in 1878 to $100,000 in 1879. It would hardly be safe, as we should judge, to draw the conclusion that this increase was made because the company, through their manager demanded it, and refused to be happy unless it was done.

SMALL AND LARGE FARMS

A writer in the January number of the Atlantic Monthly, from whose article we have heretofore quoted, argued that consolidated capital which controls many of the railroads the coal fields and no small share of commercial and manufacturing interests of the country is now invading agriculture and threatening to swallow up the small farms in big ones, cultivated by machinery at such reduced cost that the small farmers will be unable to compete, and will sink to the condition of agricultural laborers or tenants of great landlords. To sustain this view it was asserted that there had been for years a steady growth of the number of farms of 1000 acres and upwards in thirteen of the principal agricultural states. A writer in the St. Paul Pioneer Press attacks these figures and the conclusions drawn from them. He undertakes to show that to obtain these results and sustain a theory wrong conclusions are drawn from the census reports and to support his position he compiles this table showing in acres the average size of farms

	1850	1860	1870
Illinois	158	146	128
Indiana	136	124	112
Iowa	185	165	134
Kansas		171	148
Michigan	129	113	101
Minnesota	184	149	139
Nebraska		[illegible]	169
Nevada		61	[illegible]
Ohio	125	114	111
Wisconsin	148	114	114
Texas	942	591	301

These figures show on the whole a subdivision of farms and reduction of their average size. It is asserted that the Atlantic writer based his conclusions of whatever fragmentary facts he could gather rejecting everything which did not harmonize with the theory he had taken it upon himself to maintain. And it would appear indeed that he had hung theory on a very slender thread of fact when it is known that in twelve states out of the thirteen enumerated by him there were in 1870 only [illegible] farms of 1000 acres and upwards in a total of [illegible] farms in these states or [illegible] farms of 1000 acres and upwards to 1315 small farms. Examination of the census returns in [illegible] this view of the subject certainly does not discover any alarming tendency towards absorption of small farms by large holdings.

THEOLOGICAL DISPUTATION

The history of all systematic theology properly begins with the great controversy of Augustine and Pelagius in the first quarter of the fifth century. Since that time two systems of theological doctrine have co-existed in the Christian church. To follow this history down to the present time would be to trace the controversy between a systematic theology insisting with vigor and rigor on its formulas articles and dogmas and the general principle of freedom and fellowship in religion. The doctrines of this last have never been clearly defined—indeed are not susceptible of clear and precise definition. They may be said to be the general doctrines of the Christian church as modified to some extent and in different degrees at different times by the spirit of dissent and the spirit of rationalism. Calvinism is the great exponent in the Protestant confessions of systematic theology. It is the system of Augustine developed into more rigid and dogmatic form and infused into the creeds of all Protestant churches and into the life of modern nations through the instrumentality of John Calvin the reformer of Geneva [illegible]

Calvinism as Dr Lindsley [illegible] does still live but it does not live as an active force as it once did giving the law of belief and tolerating no dissent. It lives rather as a religious habit than as a vital power. The world is losing sight of the dogmas of systematic and the pedantries of scholastic theology. All know and can testify how even within the short space of twenty years the old system has broken up. Views regarding religion are undergoing great and rapid change. We can hardly think that the cause of true religion will suffer if religion itself come to be thought less a matter of mere assent to theological formula and more a matter of personal conduct with each individual. There should be more in religion and there is more in it than to make broad our phylacteries and keep on threshing over and over the chaff of old theological disputation.

One of the survivals of Calvinism curiously enough is in the tendency of the time toward the hard philosophy of materialism. And not so strangely, either for Calvinism is fate and destiny that is predestination applied to views of the relations between God and man. It binds God fast in his own laws and holds man under conditions from which he cannot escape. It thus virtually destroys human free-will without doing away with human responsibility. Philosophers of materialism argue that man is controlled wholly by his surroundings, that he is the mere creature and sport of forces whose iron chain he cannot break that for example in a given state of society a certain number will commit suicide or sink into vice and crime because that is the law of destiny. Alike repugnant or even more repugnant to the reason and conscience of multitudes, is "a theological system which represents man as sent into the world under a curse incurably wicked, wicked by the constitution of his flesh and wicked by eternal decree,—as doomed unless exempted by special grace which he cannot merit, or by any effort of his own obtain to live in sin while he remains on earth and to be eternally miserable when he leaves it, born so depraved that he is unable to keep the commandments, and yet justly liable to punishment for breaking them." The hard philosophy of materialism never gave us anything more cold and hopeless.

Yet this theology does assert that "the eternal and immutable plan of God has constituted man a free agent, and consequently can never interfere with the exercise of that freedom of which it is itself the foundation." Nevertheless in the case of the Creator certain "foreknowledge of all events from the absolute beginning, virtually involves the predetermination of each event without exception." Then by contradiction which never has satisfied the world and is further than ever from satisfying it now, it is insisted that this predetermination of events does not interfere with the free will of the creature. It is believed that there are few persons now even in church relations, who do not regard these things as theological paradoxes without use either for reproof admonition or doctrine. Among those greatest in intellect and purest in devotional religion have been men who never were satisfied with such a theological system. Milton, in his great poem, when he puts an argument into the mouth of the Almighty on the subject, shows how little he himself was satisfied and convinced.

What if I foreknew?
Which had no less proved certain, unforeknown

Mankind, and fortunately as it seems to us, now pays little attention to these things. These are regarded as the dry husks of theology. In any one of the simple exhortations and doctrines of the gospels, in which attention to the lesson of personal conduct is urged and pressed upon the children of men, there is more for the redemption of the world than in all the schools ever erected to teach a systematic theology, formulated in contentions between logomachists like Augustine and Pelagius, Servetus and Calvin.

Under the postal laws the salaries of postmasters are fixed according to the cash receipts of each office. For every office the receipts of which entitle the postmaster to $1000 and over the president appoints the postmaster. When the salary is less than $1000 the postmaster general makes the appointment. The business and development of some of the newer states as shown in the number of offices where postmasters are appointed by the president are something remarkable. Kansas has 65 such offices while Missouri has but 55, and Virginia only 25. Nebraska has more than Georgia and Colorado more than Tennessee. Of these offices New York has a larger number than any other state, the total being 192. Illinois is second with 162. Then follow Pennsylvania, Ohio, Massachusetts and Iowa each in the order named.

Diphtheria is said to have extended from Egypt to Asia Minor about 1500 years ago having existed in the former country 200 years previously. Spain Italy and Sicily were visited by it. In A. D. 321 it appeared in Rome, extended to Holland as an epidemic in 1737 France as early as 1818 and so up to 1855 was dangerous and showed itself in England Canada and the United States in 1856. The German empress offers a large prize for the best essay on the essence of the disease and mode of treatment.

It is estimated that the increase of population along the line of the Northern Pacific railroad in Dakota during the year [illegible] was 25 73[illegible]. There were [illegible] acres of wheat along the road in 1879 which was 81 155 more than in 1878. The ground broken in 1879 to be cultivated (nearly all in wheat in 1880) is about [illegible] acres. Of the crop of 1879 the road had delivered at Duluth Minneapolis and St Paul, down to December 1st about 1 300 000 bushels. The total product is estimated at [illegible] bushels.

Jail Birds Foiled.—Saturday afternoon an unsuccessful attempt was made by several of the prisoners confined in the county jail to effect an escape So well were their plans laid that had not the attempt been timely discovered the jail birds would have gained their freedom The leading spirit in the attempt was one George Moody who has been held to answer on a charge of larceny He was assisted by a fellow prisoner named Morrison who was arrested a few days ago charged with robbing a trunk at the Northern Hotel. By some means Moody obtained possession of a large pocket knife the long blade of which was converted into a saw With the serrated edge Moody succeeded in cutting off one of the iron bars used as a railing in the cell This bar furnished a very effective instrument with which it was hoped they could dig their way out to liberty. In the afternoon these worthies commenced operations, as at that hour their work would be less likely to be discovered. They commenced delving in the wall near the heavily barred window in the south corridor but did not proceed without noise, which attracted attention of Deputy Sheriff Church and Jailer Barry They went into the corridor at once and ordered all the prisoners into the cells On looking along the wall the bar of iron, knife and fragments of brick and mortar revealed the whole business Moody confessed that he had secured the iron from his bunk, but refused to tell who did the rest of the work but there is good reason to believe that Morrison was his assistant. Jack Williams, who is now in jail awaiting trial for a murderous assault on a man in ——, and Frank Hallerton arrested for robbing a store, both occupy the cell with Moody [illegible], when questioned, the prisoner denied having assisted in the attempted escape [illegible] Moody and Morrison were heavily ironed, and will not be allowed another opportunity to break jail Had they succeeded in making a hole in the wall twenty one prisoners could have easily escaped

Death of Jack O'Donnell.—Jack O'Donnell died Sunday morning at half past 6 o'clock, at St. Vincent's hospital It will be remembered that Jack O'Donnell or "Red Jack," by which name he was more familiarly known, had his leg badly fractured by the falling of the Bremen beer hall on the day of the great wind storm He was taken to St Vincent's hospital, where everything was done by skillful doctors to save the limb and alleviate his suffering Both bones being badly fractured and the flesh severely lacerated, it was doubtful whether the leg could be saved or not. Gangrene set in, followed by hemorrhage. The doctors deemed it necessary to amputate the leg The operation was performed a week ago last Saturday For several days after the operation the wound [illegible] well, except that there was a [illegible] sloughing, and not sufficient vitality in the stump to heal up On Friday a [illegible] hemorrhage took place, which was [illegible], and again yesterday morning at [illegible] the artery commenced to bleed. [illegible] and Rex were telephoned for [illegible] to the patient's bedside [illegible] exceedingly low However, they succeeded in ligating the artery but Jack [illegible] weak from the loss of blood [illegible] after the hemorrhage was [illegible]. The body was conveyed to his [illegible] Mill and Water streets from where it will be buried to-day

[illegible]—Master Clement O'Brian [illegible] messenger boys employed by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company met with a very distressing accident at eight o'clock Saturday afternoon. The lad had just mounted the little gray pony in front of [illegible] office and was starting up the [illegible] important errand. While [illegible] the pony slipped and fell and [illegible] Master O'Brien's left leg was caught under the animal and sustained a severe compound fracture below the knee He was conveyed at once to his house on Fifth street between Market and Clay. Medical aid was summoned and the fractured limb set. The lad is aged about 14 years, and is one of the most faithful and efficient messengers employed by the company.

[illegible] Carrlook."—We are pleased to note the arrival of this magnificent vessel in our port. The laugh of the genial Capt [illegible] will be again heard in the land and [illegible] friends will rejoice when they see [illegible] is not only as lusty and happy as of [illegible] this time accompanied by [illegible] better half. Last year this vessel, [illegible] remembered, made the quickest [illegible] England on record, viz 88 days [illegible] pilot, thus stamping her as one of the fastest, if not the fastest vessel afloat. She [illegible] charter to Rodgers, Meyer & Co, and will [illegible] quick dispatch, so that she will get away this year the same time as last, and will in all probability make another [illegible] passage.

[illegible]—A dispatch was received here yesterday from San Luis Obispo, California, conveying the sad intelligence of the death at [illegible] of Miss Katie Showers. The deceased was a daughter of Mr. Wm. Showers, formerly treasurer of Multnomah and was [illegible]. She left Portland some time [illegible] hopes of benefiting her rapidly failing health. The change expected and so [illegible] for, failed to come, and after [illegible] some weeks Miss Showers passed away to the world beyond, at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. She was a very [illegible] young lady, and her death is greatly regretted by all who know her The remains will be brought to Portland for interment.

[illegible] the West Side.—Service will [illegible] on the west side road to Corvallis [illegible] ten days. The present arrangement of morning mails via the east side to Albany and thence by stage, will however [illegible] continued All matter mailed in [illegible] between 6 A. M. and 1 30 P M. for Corvallis and way points will be sent by the [illegible] train. Matter mailed at Corvallis during the day for Portland will be sent on the [illegible] morning train, and will reach the city five hours earlier than under the present arrangement. An office will be established at Wells' station, and others as the needs of the country require

[illegible] a Law.—At the last meeting of the common council an ordinance was passed increasing the salary of the superintendent of the streets to $1600 per annum. Mayor Thompson had not signed the ordinance nor returned it to the council with his objections, up to 12 o'clock Saturday. The time fixed by the council in which the ordinance should have been signed or vetoed having expired by limitation, it has become a law In this manner Mr. Braden, the efficient superintendent of streets, gets an increase of salary

What a Whopper!—The writer of the following paragraph, which appeared in a recent number of the New York World, is entitled to wear the medal as the boss prevaricator "At Slattery [illegible], Oregon, recently a society wedding took place, the church being filled with a large and fashionable congregation The names of the parties concerned attracted great attention from their singularity Col John Bennard married Eleanor Crow Rev Dr Robin united the couple in marriage

Nehalem Road.—Active steps are being taken by the people of St. Helens to reopen the wagon road from that village to the Nehalem valley. A good road was opened between the two points last season but the recent violent storm threw many trees across it. These trees are to be cut out of the way immediately, several hundred dollars having been contributed for that purpose by the people of Columbia county and the merchants of Portland

Home Insurance Co of N Y.—Mr Charles L Dimon, special agent for the Home Insurance Co, has just established a branch agency in this city. The company he represents propose to comply with the laws of the state by depositing in the bank as required $50 000 Applications for appointment as agent at Portland and other points throughout the state solicited Address Chas L Dimon ca e First National Bank Portland

New Uniforms.—The messengers of the Northwestern Telephone Co made their appearance Saturday in gorgeous new uniforms The suits are of heavy blue-black cloth trimmed with gold cord and braid and caps to match, and are quite as rich and handsome as the uniforms of steamship officers

Will Remove.—John A Child the druggist in the Centennial block will remove this week to the room corner Second and Morrison, formerly occupied by Mrs H Ach

Oregon Conference Minutes.—The printed minutes of the Oregon Annual Conference of the M. E. church which was held in Portland last August from the 20th to the 25th inclusive has been laid on our table It is a neat pamphlet of [illegible] pages and contains much interesting statistical and other matter connected with the church The typographical work was done by George Himes and is very creditable

Wedding.—Mr Chas [illegible]ston of the firm of S G Skidmore & Co was married last night to Miss Lelie W Spaulding one of the teachers of the Central school The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's [illegible] and was performed by Rev T L Eliot Mr and Mrs [illegible] number their friends in this city by hundreds who join in many wishes for a long life of peace and happiness

German Theater.—The second rendition of "[illegible] and City" at Turn Halle last night by the ladies and gentlemen of the dramatic section of the Turn Verein drew a packed house The performance was smoother and more spirited than that of two weeks ago and was fully up to the standard of good professionals

German School Ball.—The ball at Turn halle to night for the benefit of the Independent German school merits a large attendance The school is somewhat in debt met with losses to fences etc during the late storm and needs the money to be realized at the ball for improvements on the school building

U S Circuit Court.—Judge Deady will announce a decision this morning in the U S v Quivey on the demurrer to the supplemental answer and also upon the demurrer to the plea in abatement in Cahn v Barnes et al

Contract Awarded.—The contract for raising the East Portland Baptist church which was blown over on the 7th ultimo has been let to Mr G O Allen who commenced work Saturday morning

HEAVY ASSESSMENTS

Certain persons themselves mostly irresponsible who pay no taxes nor ever will are fond of making the assertion that the wealthy men of this city manage to escape in great degree the burdens of taxation The following list embracing twenty taxpayers of the county shows the assessment of 1879 as compared with that of 1878 The increase on these twenty names amounts to $504 525 The result shows an effort on the part of the assessor to do his duty

AMUSEMENTS.

Engaged' To night.—It will, no doubt be a welcome announcement to the amusement loving people of Portland that New Market Theater will be reopened to night with a good company, and that an interesting season is promised for the remainder of the winter The piece announced is 'Engaged' one of those pleasing society plays from the fertile pen of W S Gilbert Mr Geo D Chaplin, who will assume the leading character brings with him an excellent reputation as a scholarly, manly actor, and the company, judging the principal members by their former efforts on the boards of New Market and the encomiums of the San Francisco press will make in every respect, a worthy support The orchestra will be increased and made one of the features of the theater It is to be hoped that the opening night will be a rouser

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Messrs DuBois & King have secured the agency of the well known Macneale & Urban's safes and invite a call from purchasers

John Kearney having just purchased an entire new outfit is now prepared to do a general express business All orders left with him will be promptly attended to charges moderate By strict attention to business he hopes to secure a fair share of public patronage

Olds & King the Third street dry goods men, announce in another column the commencement of their second annual clearance sale This house has never tried to mislead the public but has performed every promise made, and buyers can depend on this sale being conducted strictly on the square

CARD OF THANKS.

The ladies of the Relief Society desire to make special mention of their appreciation of and gratitude for, the excellent music furnished by the Washington Guard band, at the party Friday evening, at Turn Halle The music was first class and was universally commended by the large crowd in attendance who thoroughly enjoyed it as one of the most important features of the evening However, it was furnished free not a single member of the band being willing to receive any pay. Under the circumstances the gift to the society is no ordinary one

IS CALVINISM DEAD?

BY REV A L LINDSLEY

All persons who are not atheists are concerned with the questions what is God? what degree of interest does he take in our destiny to what extent does he concern himself with the progress of souls into eternity has he formed any purpose about it is his purpose flexible or unchangeable He is sovereign in the universe is he sovereign in salvation This question has created endless discussion It is not the fact that God is author of the gospel [illegible] of his [illegible] ment in its application which directs the controversy

On one side are those who contend that the certainty of salvation would lead to carelessness of matters and feebleness of effort On the other those who maintain that God's spirit so enlightens the mind that it is influenced by a new class of motives which regulates the whole life It is summed up in the sentiment of love which is grateful to God and pity for fellow creatures They who hold that he is a sovereign in salvation contend that their view is the only consistent one that it agrees with all parts of scripture as well as with all we know of God in the universe visible and moral

They claim that their view is the only one which harmonizes all parts of scripture with all parts of salvation from the first bestowment of its unbought gifts in all the progress of the life which begins here and never ends They claim also that it is the only one which harmonizes the doctrine of scripture with human experience They affirm that the teachings of the new testament can be fully and symmetrically explained only upon this single principle—that God is sovereign in salvation from first to last

And so abounding and limitless are His mercies that He has provided in them a sufficiency for the whole world while He leaves men free to accept or reject it all He preserves and guards the freedom of men so that their liberty of choice is jealously maintained and all in entire harmony with His operations so that the responsibility of souls under the gospel is increased rather than diminished

Among the advocates of the sovereignty of God in salvation and the freedom of men in accepting or rejecting it the most distinguished have been the inspired apostles especially St Paul And among the uninspired Augustine in the early church and after him John Calvin First these advocates were called Paulinians Centuries passed and a new term Augustinians was heard Then came the reformation of the sixteenth century and they were known as Calvinists The term since then and now is commonly applied to those who explain the gospel in its origin and efficiency both in heart and life upon the one principle of the sovereignty of God These advocates have found support among the most powerful thinkers in the world some of whom had no access to the sacred scriptures

On the other hand their views have been denounced by many influential minds who reject the gospel itself and with it the sovereignty of God in everything Large denominations of Christians have also rejected it Many writers have assailed it with ridicule and caricature and passionate declamation not scrupling to misrepresent it or those who hold it The character of its defenders has been pertinaciously assailed and calumniated

This widespread misrepresentation of the doctrine and those who have upheld it has produced an impression in some quarters that its power in the church has terminated It has been pronounced defunct. Periodically we hear Calvinism is dead

The silence of its defenders is often misconstrued It does not spring from a sense of weakness, but from quite the opposite feeling They partake of the stability which the doctrine itself is calculated to impart to one who sincerely accepts it and undertakes to regulate his life according to it

Another fact tends to keep its defenders quiet The objections and misrepresentations have been met and answered a thousand times and the result seems always to be an illustration of the couplet

> Convince a man against his will
> He's of the same opinion still

In considering the question Is Calvinism Dead? It will be useful to examine the character and opinions and life, and influence of him from whom the term is derived

In my studies of any subject I have always sought to get a view of everyside of it I have followed the admirable suggestion audi alterum partem (hear the other side) and have not hesitated to quote the opinions of opponents

I shall observe the spirit of this maxim in this lecture I shall refer to documents of unquestioned authority and views of men who are not the advocates of Calvin's religious sentiments I shall let them speak I shall not quote slanderers, who are too passionate or too stupid to understand what they are abusing but I shall summon fair minded men who are willing to do justice to an opponent

I gather the facts of Calvin's life from a great variety of sources He was born of French Catholic parents His father was an educated man and strict in his morals his mother was devout and withal beautiful The son received the best education that Europe could afford in the universities of Orleans Bourges and Paris and distinguished himself by his rapid progress

At the age of nineteen and afterwards he often conducted the recitation for an absent professor with great satisfaction to all but himself for he was never fond of display or notoriety but rather courted the retirement of his study In the judgment of his contemporaries both Catholic and Protestant, he left the university the most promising literary man of the age—an age that could justly claim some of the brightest lights of modern times He might have attained to the highest honors in France if not in all Europe if his religious convictions had not undergone a radical change

This change was ushered in through darkness struggle and distress He adhered tenaciously to the Catholic church as Luther did and strove in vain to secure in its masses and penances, the peace he sought He was driven only to a deeper sense of sin and guilt

He resorted to an earnest study of the holy scriptures and while thus engaged the knowledge of salvation through Christ, like a bright light from heaven burst upon his mind He forsook all his brilliant prospects to follow and serve the crucified Lord

I quote from the work of German rationalists and liberal thinkers who have published some of Calvin's works as reported by Prof Schaff

"There never was a change of conviction purer in motive more radical in character more fruitful and permanent in result It bears a striking resemblance to that still greater event near Damascus, which transformed a fanatical pharisee into an apostle of Jesus Christ And indeed Calvin was not unlike St Paul in his intellectual and moral constitution and the apostle of sovereign grace and evangelical freedom never had a more sympathetic expounder than the Reformer of Geneva

With this step Calvin renounced all prospects of a brilliant career upon which he had already entered and exposed himself to the danger of persecution and death

After this change Calvin wrote the inaugural address for his friend Nicholas Cop a learned physician and scholar who had been chosen rector of the university of Paris It advocated church reform on the basis of the pure gospel Its delivery created a great excitement

It was ordered to be publicly burned The recently installed rector was warned and fled Calvin was let down from a window in a basket and escaped from Paris in the garb of a vine dresser He wandered about through France for years preaching the gospel and comforting persecuted Christians

Next he fled to Strasburg At this place and at Basle he was comforted by intercourse with leading reformers with whom he entered into [illegible] friendship Here he published the first edition of his Institutes of the Christian Religion dedicated to Francis I the king of France

Next we find him in Italy at Ferrara where he leaves the indelible impress of his piety and genius

Persecuted by the inquisition he leaves Italy and passing through Geneva he was persuaded by Wm Farrell an eminent reformer and a fellow countryman to [illegible] and engage in the work of the gospel This was the turning point in Calvin's life A writer says Farrell did a great work when he gave Geneva the reformation but a still greater one when he gave Calvin to Geneva It was the [illegible] city of only twelve or fifteen thousand inhabitants but within its narrow limits it was to become the school of every [illegible] and every problem great or small [illegible]

A CLOSE CALL.

The Ship Aberystwith Castle Arrives at 10:30 Saturday Night and Saves Her Owners $7000 on the Charter which would have Expired an Hour Later.

Some days ago Messrs Corbitt & Macleay received a telegram from the owners of the Aberystwith Castle to be on the lookout for her and to use every exertion to have her in Portland by midnight [illegible] the date when the charter [illegible] the option of canceling the charter party which was at a much higher rate than is now [illegible] made the necessary arrangements [illegible] an appearance [illegible] had been given [illegible] immediately after [illegible] she was boarded by Corbitt & Macleay's agent who informed the captain of it [illegible] the case No time was lost in making [illegible] necessary [illegible] entry and getting the [illegible] A [illegible] to Portland [illegible] o'clock [illegible] doubtfully it was feared that the task set for might prove too much and every way the [illegible] was sent to her assistance as soon as Corbitt & Macleay were advised of the true circumstances of the case while to guard against any unforeseen accident they dispatched the tug [illegible] from the end under the able direction of Capt Pease who had kindly volunteered his services which would have been very valuable had there been any fog as was generally expected Fortunately however no accident occurred and the vessel arrived safely at 10:30 P M thus saving her charter by a little over an hour The pilot Capt Reid deserves great credit for the masterly way in which he handled the vessel and he may well be proud of the achievement, for which it is to be hoped he will receive a substantial recompense

The Castle was chartered at [illegible] and the ruling price to day is 45s. The saving to her owners by making her time was about $ [illegible] No little excitement was felt among grain merchants and river men over the race against time and some heavy wagers were laid that she would not make this port by midnight Quite a crowd had assembled at Flanders dock and greeted the vessel with cheers

It may be in the recollection of many that it was the Aberystwith Castle which stood by and picked up the crew of the American ship Vand[illegible] when the latter [illegible] twenty miles outside the bar December 28 1877 and also kept company with the American ship [illegible] until she saw her safe into San Francisco For his gallant services on this occasion Captain Harris who is still in command of the Aberystwith Castle received handsome testimonials from our local board of trade and from the chamber of commerce at Astoria

Columbia River Bar.

The subject is agitating to the minds of the people of Oregon to a great extent and reminds one of the time when Capt Eads constructed the jetties in the Mississippi river But all these topics of the day are thrown in the shade since the introduction of the celebrated Oregon Kidney Tea The first case it has failed to cure in complaints of the kidneys and bladder is yet to be heard from,

Over-Exertion either of body or mind produces debility and disease. The usual remedy is to take some stimulant the effect of which is like same as giving a tired horse the whip instead of oats The true way is to fortify the system with a permanent tonic like the Peruvian Syrup (a protoxide of iron) which gives strength and vigor to the whole system

Our country is getting to be fearfully alarming the average of life being lessened every year without any reasonable cause, death resulting generally from the most insignificant origin At this season of the year especially a cold is such a common thing that in the hurry of every day life we are apt to overlook the dangers attending it, and often find too late that a Fever or Lung trouble has set in Thousands lose their lives in this way every winter, while had Boschee's German Syrup been taken a cure would have resulted and a large bill from a doctor been avoided For all diseases of the Throat and Lungs Boschee's German Syrup has proven itself to be the greatest discovery of its kind in medicine Every Druggist in this country will tell you of its wonderful effect Over 950,000 bottles sold last year without a single failure known

WILL YOU LIVE OR DIE?

Easy as it is to be sick, just so easy is it to be well by availing yourself of the opportunity that is now offered to the sick by

DR. D HALL McLENNAN,

Professor of Diseases of the Mind and Nervous System, formerly of Halleck's Medical Institute, Boston Mass now permanently located at corner of Second and Ash streets, Portland Oregon two blocks from O S N Co's landing at foot of Ash St.

DR McLENNAN has by his unwearied attention and extraordinary success gained a reputation which calls patients from all parts of the country to obtain advice And, without boasting he can say that probably no other physician on the Pacific Coast is treating at the present time so many cases of chronic diseases The development of important and superior remedial agents and modes of cure have enabled him to succeed in thousands of cases where others have failed The unparalleled success with which Dr McLennan has treated difficult and the so called incurable cases goes to show that no one should give up in despair, simply on the assertion of one two or three physicians who had failed to effect a cure It is with the hope of reaching many of this class that I advertise and not alone from the profit it may deservedly yield me, but for the real satisfaction of doing good relieving the pains of human ity and sending hope to the hearts of thousands of afflicted fellow creatures who are enduring great suffering under the erroneous impression that they are beyond human skill. These I am resolved shall hear of me and realize the truth of the saying that "while there is life there is hope."

Startling Weakness of Men and Women,

From whatever cause produced permanently and radically cured in three to six weeks—a radical change for the better noticed in three days Old men made young, and young men restored to the vigor of manhood To those who are suffering I advise them to try me in doing so they will call that day blessed The greatest secrecy observed Names of such patients are not published, and only referred to by permission and by calling at my office If you are suffering from any chronic disease and your doctor or doctors have failed to cure you I respectfully advise you to consult me It will cost you nothing By modern systems of cure I am constantly relieving cases in which other methods utterly fail Physicians having in charge cases that baffle their skill or resist the ordinary treatment will confer a blessing on such by sending them to my Medical Institute occupying the two-story building on the northeast corner of Second and Ash streets

Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded Letters plainly written with full particulars, containing a self addressed envelope will be promptly answered

Flattering Indorsement

From a lady well and favorably known in Portland cured by Dr McLennan after hope of recovery had been abandoned

Washington D C —I am entirely well, and feel no more of that weakness that troubled me for years, and for which I was unable to get relief until you brought me to Dr McLennan's. He has done more for me than all the other physicians put together and that too in so short a time.

MRS MAJOR BELL

Any information regarding this remarkable cure will be furnished by her mother (Mrs. Edgar) who lives at Room No 2 Bacon's building Second St., between Oak and Stark, Portland

Another Remarkable Cure

Was the case of O P, Mason who suffered for years with a weak and lame back during that period could find no relief, was cured by Dr McLennan in t[illegible] minutes

NOTE—Mr Mason is well and favorably known to all citizens of Portland as one of our most successful lawyers His office is 141 First street and can verify this statement for himself

Success the Test of Merit—Another Remarkable Cure

This is to certify that Dr McLennan cured me of consumption and catarrh after Drs. Oliver and Hatch of Astoria had pronounced my case beyond medical aid and advised me to come to Portland and go to the hospital I came to Portland but did not go to the hospital as a friend who met me here advised me to go to Dr McLennan This was two months ago I was then continually coughing up blood and matter I have coughed none for five weeks and am fleshing up every day I now live at 49 Stark street but my home is in Astoria If anybody writes to me concerning my cure I will answer the same

Respectfully E. R. DAILY

The following parties whose names and addresses are given below can be consulted in reference to Dr McLennan's great success They have all been the victims of wrong doctoring and never found relief much less a cure until Dr McLennan's treated them Mrs. Daniel Cline Scappoose Oregon gained 19 pounds in two months under Dr McLennan's treatment She says I have never felt so well for three years as I have the last two months

Mrs Captain Lincoln of the ship Tecumseh now stopping at room 7 St Charles Hotel suffered for 20 years with debility dyspepsia and chronic inflammation of the stomach She had doctored in England and France and employed without success some of the most eminent physicians in America Completely cured by Dr McLennan in seven weeks

IS CALVINISM DEAD?

(Concluded from Third Page.)

fession of faith, and the right of excluding unworthy communicants from the Lord's [illegible]er. His refusal to administer the com[illegible] to unworthy persons led to his expulsion from the city, and he again became an exile and wanderer.

He spent a few quiet and fruitful years at Strasbourg as pastor of a congregation. His observations of the reformation in Germany impressed him unfavorably as to the power exerted over the reformed churches by the princes and other secular rulers.

The great principle of the separation of church and state was more firmly fixed in the mind of John Calvin. Here he wrote some of his immortal treatises, containing principles which were never more influential in literary, political and religious circles than at the present day. Here also he married Idelette de Buren, a pious, amiable and cultivated woman. For nine years they lived in the enjoyment of domestic happiness, when death came. His warm and constant affection received a painful wound, which never healed.

In private letters he refers to the loss in the most touching manner, and long after the sad occurrence. His friendships were numerous, and his attachments ardent, generous and permanent. His affection for Philip Melancthon, the celebrated reformer of Germany, we cite as an illustration. They differed as much in disposition, and sometimes in opinions, as in nationality; and yet their friendship grew stronger and more intimate until Melancthon's death. Thus the survivor wrote on the anniversary of that event in an excess of grief: "O, Philip, who livest with Christ in God, and art there waiting for us, until we shall also be gathered with thee to that blessed rest! A hundred times worn out with fatigue and overwhelmed with care thou didst lay thy head upon my breast and say, 'Would to God that I might die here on thy heart!' And I, a thousand times since then, have earnestly desired that it had been granted us to remain together."

Let those who accuse Calvin of possessing a morose disposition, read his letters, and they will reach the same conclusion about it that M. Guizot did when he wrote: "It would be difficult to reconcile truth, piety and friendship more tenderly."

Meanwhile the Genevese had been brought by sad experience to repent the banishment of their faithful pastor. The people were compelled to feel that the reformed faith alone could put their commonwealth upon a firm foundation. They united in the urgent and repeated recall of Calvin. He reluctantly consented. For twenty-three years, until his death, his life at Geneva was a scene of uninterrupted labors—a fierce, relentless warfare against superstition, infidelity and immorality. He established a model government—a republic both in state and church. He preached and taught from day to day. He wrote commentaries and treatises and letters—many thousands of pages. He established an academy—which we would call a college—that soon attracted over eight hundred students, and which is flourishing to this day. He attended the sessions of the councils. He entertained strangers. He provided for fugitives from persecution. He raised permanent funds for the poor. In all his benevolent efforts he was ably seconded by his wife.

He was in fact the admitted leader of the reform movement throughout Europe. By his counsels he gathered it into order. He placed it on record. He surrounded it by defenses. He made it a living spiritual power operating in conformity with the revealed will of God. The immortal "Institutes" are in their sphere like Aristotle in his, or like Bacon's Organon, or Newton's Principia.

He lived in the utmost simplicity. Cardinal Sadolet, travelling under an assumed name and concealing his rank, called on the great reformer to take notes of the man and his ways, and was astonished at his frugal and unostentatious style. He left in funds about two hundred dollars. When Pope Pius IV. heard of his death he paid him this high compliment: "The strength of that heretic consisted in this, that money never had the slightest charm for him. If I had such servants, my dominions would extend from sea to sea."

His immense labors, multiplied by his world-wide influence, finally broke down his delicate constitution and brought him to a premature grave.

He died in the prime of manhood, in the full possession of his faculties, in the zenith of his fame.

Like a beloved patriarch there gathered around him the syndics, the councils, the magistrates and the citizens, to whom he gave the most considerate advice and his ardent prayers—a sublime scene, worthy of the artist's skill who immortalized himself by depicting it on the canvas.

Calvin expressly forbade the erection of a monument over his grave; and as was written of Moses, no man knoweth his sepulchre.

Calvin was of middle height, of presence dignified, of manners courteous, grave and kind; in person, scrupulously neat; in habits, orderly and methodical. His mental endowments were of the highest order. He had a profound, acute and penetrating intellect, and a sound and almost unerring judgment. His scholarship partook of the nature of his mind, and was also varied, one of the results of which was that he became, without intending it, one of the fathers of the modern French language. "His eloquence," says a writer, "is logic set on fire by intense conviction. His 'Institutes' are in truth a continuous oration, in which the stream of discussion rolls onward with an impetuous current."

History furnishes no example of a man who courted popularity so little and yet had so great influence with the people, and who, with such natural bashfulness and modesty, combined such power of control over his own generation and future ages. Constitutionally a retiring scholar and man of reflection, he became providentially a mighty man of action and intrepidity—a creator of public sentiment, a quiet leveler of royal prerogatives, the seedsower of all the republics existing in the world, the founder of free schools and the organizer of the churches of the great reformation—the universal and unchallengeable benefactor of mankind, whose fame shall grow brighter as ages roll onward.

And now I seem to hear many voices exclaim, "Is this the man who is so much spoken against, in some quarters? And how can you explain the abuse which has been heaped upon him?" In a few calm words I reply:

I. Calvin was careless of his fame. He had no time for writing his own memoirs, being constantly occupied with the public service. He did the work of Europe and left publicity to others.

II. No great nation was his follower and supporter. Luther had Protestant Germany under his hand, and kings and universities upheld him. The powerful elector of Saxony was his devoted adherent. On the other hand, Calvin's adopted country was a little corner of Switzerland hemmed in by lake and Alp. He spoke to rulers, but no ruler ever spoke for him; no sword was ever drawn in his defense.

III. It was in the interest of monarchy and nobility to destroy his influence. He took the position that both state and church should be republican in spirit and in form, and he fortified it with impregnable arguments. Kingcraft and priestcraft were leagued against him. The universities of Europe dared not to vindicate him, although he was one of their brightest ornaments and literary men were employed to defame him. Misrepresentation and ridicule like Voltaire's were leveled against him systematically, and no literature of the 17th or 18th century more abounds with this species of injustice and abuse than the English. Over all this was the natural hostility against the doctrines which prostrate human pride before God, of which he was the most conspicuous advocate in Europe. He spoke to Europe and Europe heard him and the reformation formed her churches after his model. Their confessions of faith were subjected to his revision and approval. The English reformers consulted him and adopted his views of doctrine. But notwithstanding his universal popularity, he had no party, and no organization felt called upon to protect his character or fame. His very defenselessness tempted the wits of literature and the satellites of kings and of the privileged orders to defame him without scruple and without fear of chastisement.

IV. The flame that burnt Servetus is kept flashing in Calvin's face. No assault upon him is considered complete unless the coals of that fire are fanned. And some of his opponents seize every chance to fling the embers upon him. I said some of them, for there are high minded men who regard Calvin's complicity with the fate of Servetus as a lamentable error; but being the one great mistake of the most useful, laborious and self-denying man in Europe, whose influence is still unparalleled, they pass it by.

The degree of Calvin's responsibility for the death of Servetus is still an open question. It is known, however, that Servetus challenged his fate by returning to Geneva, and that he came back expecting the support of the Libertine party to secure the expulsion of Calvin. I quote from the narrative of the Rev. Albert Rilliet, Unitarian minister of Geneva, who examined the original records of the trial of Servetus.

Calvin and his supporters were in the minority. The government was debating his banishment because he had refused to restore an expelled member on their demand, and his footing was very precarious. He felt it keenly, but did not hesitate to do what he believed to be his duty for the welfare of the commonwealth.

M. Guizot, the eminent French statesman and historian, says expressly that Servetus went to Geneva relying on the Libertines and that they expected his support. Calvin was in fact, in the very crisis of his conflict with his adversaries, and Berthelier, the expelled member was a leader of the Libertines. Servetus demanded that Calvin should be banished and his property handed over to him. A stormy debate arose in the council, in which Calvin, rather than Servetus, was the object of attack. Servetus having made the attack, it was followed up by one of his most powerful advocates. Servetus gave utterance to Pantheistic and blasphemous sentiments, which lost him the sympathies of the friends in whom he relied so confidently.

Says M. Rilliet—I quote his conclusion and words: Servetus was tried "not at all as the opponent of Calvin—scarcely as a heretic—but essentially as seditious. Politics acted a much more important part than theology, towards the close of his trial." For new evidence of his seditious plots appeared which led to a change of indictment.

Dyer, a writer not at all disposed to excuse Calvin, says: "The replies of Servetus to the indictment are very insolent and seem almost like the productions of a madman." He avowed publicly, says M. Rilliet, his design "to pursue Calvin till the cause be determined by the death of him or me."

The council was composed of twenty members, only seven of whom were Calvinists, and only four voted against the condemnation.

It is plain, moreover, that Servetus was not burned for heresy, but in the language of M. Rilliet "the heresy of Servetus had assumed in the minds of the council the twofold character of blasphemy and sedition."

The whole affair was part and parcel of a fierce struggle between two political parties. All candid men in view of all the facts, will say with Coleridge, "If any fanatic ever thrust himself into the flames, that man was Servetus."

It is doubtful whether Calvin could have saved him; but he did not try. What he did attempt was to secure a mitigation of the sentence, and in that he failed. In his letters, however, he approved of his condemnation. He had reason to expect that Servetus would recant. The execution of Servetus was sanctioned, with a few notable exceptions, by the Christian world. Even Philip Melancthon gave it his approval.

Seditious and fanatical sects followed in the path of the reformation, and its opponents labored unscrupulously to identify the cause with those destroyers of social order and the public peace. It made the true reformers very desirous to show that they were not the same, and herein they found a reason to justify what we would call their severity.

The times were full of agitation and distress. The ship's course lay, not for a brief hour, but for long years, between Scylla and Charybdis, with a tempest beating upon it, and the breakers ever in sight. A mutiny on board must be suppressed. So the reformers felt, and they acted in view of the universal opinion that it was lawful to punish the utterance of seditious sentiments with death.

It is an easy but indefensible practice for men who dwell in the light of the 19th century, to pronounce their verdict against those who were just emerging from the darkest period in the annals of modern Europe. If you cannot be charitable, I pray you, exercise at least a little common sense.

M. Guizot, who shows no partiality to the Geneva reformer, thus pronounces upon the case:

"It was the tragical destiny of Servetus and Calvin to enter into mortal conflict as the champions of two great causes. It is my profound conviction that Calvin's cause was the good one; that it was the cause of morality, of social order, of civilization. Servetus was the representative of a system false in itself, and destructive alike of social and moral order. * * Servetus obtained the honor of being one of the few martyrs to intellectual liberty, while Calvin, who was one of those that did most toward the establishment of religious liberty, had the misfortune to ignore his adversary's right to liberty of belief."

But it must be said that Calvin did not treat other adversaries with like severity. He looked upon Laelius Socinus, the leader of the Unitarians of that day, who were called after him, Socinians, with very different feelings, because he saw in him a sobriety and sincerity which were wholly wanting in the reckless and malignant Servetus. The latter he treated as he felt in duty bound. The moral character and aims of the two men led him to treat the one with a righteous indignation and the other with kindness and courtesy.

In this discussion I have been guided by authorities which were either indifferent to Calvin or opposed to him. I have purposely avoided quoting the opinions of his admirers. I shall conclude with a few estimates of the great reformer's character, selected from similar sources.

Bungener, a pastor of the national church of Geneva, and author of several historical works, says: "But the man, in spite of all his faults, has not the less remained one of the fairest types of faith, of earnest piety, of devotedness and of courage. Amid modern laxity there is no character of whom the contemplation is more instructive; for there is no man of whom it has been said with greater justice, in the words of an apostle, he endured as seeing Him who is invisible."

Ernest Renan, author of a 'Life of Jesus,' once educated for the Romish priesthood, then a skeptic, with all his abhorrence of Calvin's creed says: "Calvin was one of those absolute men cast complete in one mould, who is taken in wholly at a single glance—one letter, one action suffices for a judgment of him. There were no folds in that inflexible soul, which never knew doubt or hesitation. Careless of wealth of titles, of honors, indifferent to pomp, modest in his life, apparently humble, sacrificing everything to the desire of making others like himself. I hardly know of a man who could match him. Lacking that vivid, deep, sympathetic ardor which was one of the secrets of Luther's success, lacking the charm, the perilous, languishing tenderness of Francis of Sales, Calvin succeeded, in an age and in a country which called for a reaction towards Christianity simply because he was the most Christian man of his generation."

Guizot, a very competent judge of historical and moral greatness, thus concludes his biography:

"Calvin is great by reason of his marvellous powers, his lasting labors, and the moral height and purity of his character. Earnest in faith, pure in motive, austere in his life, and mighty in his works, Calvin is one of those who deserve their great fame. Three centuries separate us from him, but it is impossible to examine his character and history, without feeling, if not affection and sympathy, at least profound respect and admiration for one of the great reformers of Europe and of the great Christians of France."

George Bancroft, historian of the United States, has this word on Calvin:

It is intolerance only which would limit the praise of Calvin to a single sect or refuse to reverence his virtues and regret his failings. He lived in the time when nations were shaken to their center by the excitement of the reformation; when the fields of Holland and France were wet with the carnage of persecution; when vindictive monarchs on the one side threatened all Protestants with outlawry and death, and the vatican on the other sent forth its anathemas and its cry for blood. In that day, it is too true, the influence of an ancient, long-established, hardly-disputed error, the constant danger of his position, the intense desire to secure union among the antagonists of popery, the engrossing consciousness that his struggle was for the emancipation of the Christian world, induced the great reformer to defend the use of the sword for the extirpation of heresy. Reprobating and lamenting his adhesion to the cruel doctrine, which all christendom had for centuries implicitly received, we may, as republicans, remember that Calvin was not only the founder of a sect, but foremost among the most efficient of modern republican legislators. More truly benevolent to the human race than Solon, more self-denying than Lycurgus, the genius of Calvin infused enduring elements into the institutions of Geneva, and made it for the modern world the impregnable fortress of popular liberty, the fertile seed plot of democracy.

We boast of our common schools; Calvin was the father of popular education, the inventor of the system of free schools. We are proud of the free states that fringe the Atlantic. The pilgrims of Plymouth were Calvinists; the best influence in South Carolina came from the Calvinists of France. William Penn was a disciple of the Huguenots; the ships from Holland that first brought colonists to Manhattan were filled with Calvinists. He that will not honor the memory and respect the influence of Calvin knows but little of the origin of American liberty.

If personal considerations chiefly win applause then no one merits our sympathy and admiration more than Calvin—a young exile from France who achieved an immortality of fame before he was twenty-eight years of age; now boldly reasoning with the King of France for religious liberty; now venturing as the apostle of truth to carry the new doctrines into the heart of Italy, and hardly escaping from the fury of papal persecution; the purest writer, the keenest dialectician of his century; pushing free inquiry to its utmost verge, and yet valuing inquiry solely as a means of arriving at fixed conclusions. The light of his genius scattered the mask of darkness which superstition had held for centuries before the brow of religion. His probity was unquestioned, his morals spotless. His only happiness consisted in his "task of glory and of good," for sorrow found its way into all his private relations. He was an exile from his country, he became for a season an exile from his place of exile. As a husband he was doomed to mourn the premature loss of his wife; as a father, he felt the bitter pang of burying his only child. Alone in the world, alone in a strange land he went forward in his career with serene resignation and inflexible firmness; no love of ease turned him aside from his vigils; no fear of danger relaxed the nerve of his eloquence; no bodily infirmities checked the incredible activity of his mind; and so he continued, year after year, solitary and feeble, yet toiling for humanity, till after a life of glory, he bequeathed to his personal heirs, a fortune in books and furniture, stocks and money, not exceeding two hundred dollars, and to the world a purer reformation, a republican spirit in religion, with the kindred principles of republican liberty.

The telegraph brings word of extensive manipulation of the grain and provision markets. There seems to be a firmly set resolve on the part of this ring to compel European buyers to pay higher prices, and the combination is so powerful that it will more than likely achieve success unless the surplus in other countries accessible to England is greater than heretofore reported. Not only has this combination got full control of the wheat trade of the Mississippi valley, but it is now at work endeavoring to get hold of sufficient corn, provisions, etc. to be able to manage these staples in the same way.

In the local market transactions are slow with no important noticeable tendency. Wheat shippers in most cases are not buying except at the lowest quoted rates. The commotion in the markets east have but little effect here, local prices depending more upon San Francisco and Liverpool than upon Chicago and New York. There is a fair demand from millers for choice wheat, but not at a figure above $1 87½. Very few holders of good shipping are willing to sell at anything under this figure.

EASTERN FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Freights per clipper remain quiet, and there is but very little doing at the wharves of the vessel loading. The fact is that the season for shipments by this route is well over and many shippers are now giving their attention to steamers in order to get goods in the market for spring trade, and rates remain rather firm on the basis of nine dollars per ton. Freights via isthmus are eagerly sought for, and steamer of the tenth proximo will have a very full and selected cargo for California markets.

Freights at Boston are rather quiet. The agent of the McLauren expects to get her off by the fifteenth, but it will probably be some days later.

Overland freights at Boston about as quiet, with shipments past week of 393 packages, including 405 packages fish, 10 boxes codfish, 25 packages tobacco.

At Philadelphia, the freight market is very dull. The Red Cloud will be full about the fifteenth of February, and the Landseer some days earlier. Vessels loading for Portland get on slowly, as deliveries of railroad iron are slow.

Business of all kinds in foreign fruits is very dull, and prices show more or less tendency in favor of buyers. Raisins, seedless, $1 25@1 35; layers, boxes, $2 20@$2 25; loose Muscatel, $2 25@$2 30; London layers, $2 50@$2 55; halves, $1 25; Valencias, 7¾@7¾; Sultanas, 8¾@8½; currants, new, 6½; prunes, old, 6½@7½, new, 8¼@8¾; figs, 12@15c; drums, 10c; dried apples quiet; southern sliced, 7@10c; western quarters, 6½@8c; state quarters, 6½@8c; sliced, 7@8c; evaporated, 11@14c; plums, unchanged.

Chicago Grain and Provision Market.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—The wheat deal has been in a nervous fluctuating condition, opening a little above last week's closing and ruling decidedly higher. The clique may have unloaded heavily at the high figures current a few weeks ago, but they undoubtedly hold a large quantity now, and in all probability bought in at the lower prices all they could, undoubtedly a greater quantity than they sold, and are now in better condition to hold, for two reasons; they have much more money than before, and it is nearer spring. There seems to be no possible doubt that eventually they will crowd prices up beyond the former limit and will compel European buyers to meet their views. One by one the sturdy bears who have made a manful, plucky fight against this conviction and its consequences, are stepping into the traces, filling in their shorts and buying for a long hold and a big rise. It is not known that there is at present a solitary dealer of prominence on the bear side of the wheat market. The manipulators of the ring are extending also into corn, and it is stated to-day that David Dows & Co. have numerous agents in western towns who are buying corn to hold and who have already secured three millions of bushels in Iowa. The confidence of operators and farmers in the prevalence of higher prices is simply astonishing, especially when it is noted that wheat is now 35 cents higher per bushel than at this time last year, corn 7c higher, oats 13c, rye 33c higher, barley about the same, pork $3 50 a barrel higher, and lard $1 per 100 higher.

Sales for the week were for the March option wheat, $1 15¾; on Monday, $1 23; corn 36½@36½; oats 32@32¾; pork $12 35@12 87½; lard 7½@7 60.

Provisions heavy and generally lower under depressing influence of mild weather.

Closing March prices—Wheat, $1 21; corn 37¼; oats 32½; pork $12 55; lard $7 50.

Closing cash prices—Wheat, $1 19¼; corn 36⅞; oats 33½; rye 75@75½; barley 80@82; pork $12 35; lard 7¾; whiskey [illegible].

Receipts for the week—Wheat 250,000 bushels; corn 995,000 bushels; oats 127,500 bushels.

Shipments—Wheat 145,000 bushels; corn 548,000 bushels; oats 106,000 bushels.

Receipts same per cent. Last year—Wheat 561,000 bushels; corn 532,000 bushels, oats 185,000 bushels. Shipments—Wheat 216,005 bushels; corn 828,300 bushels; oats 138,000 bushels.

New York Markets.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Markets with few exceptions quiet and instances lower. However, the indications for good healthy spring trade are plenty. Breadstuffs dull, prices irregular.

Provisions—Light demand, prices easier.

Rio coffee—Extremely dull, nominal.

Refined sugars—Quiet and steady; crushed 9⅞@9¾; powdered 9¾; granulated 9⅜; cut loaf 9⅞@[illegible]

Coffee—A standards 9⅝; do. off A 8⅝@9; white extra C 8⅝@8¾, extra C 8⅜@8¼; C 7⅞@8, yellow 7⅝@7¾.

Teas—Not very active, but holders firm and confident.

Turpentine—Dull and weak, 46c.

Petroleum—Dull. Cases 1[illegible]

Crude, whale and sperm oil—Very firm, quiet.

Paints—Very good demand, prices firm.

Borax—Moderate demand, steady prices.

Quicksilver—Dull, irregular.

Hides—Very dull, prices weak.

Leather—Moderate demand, prices lower; Cala. [illegible]

Hardware—Good active demand and manufacturers are crowded to their utmost capacity on orders to meet contracts on hand. Prices have a hardening tendency.

Nails—Unsettled; manufacturers looking for higher prices; present quotations $5 25.

Pig iron—Unchanged; business light, prices firm; Scotch pig easier with fair business doing. English [illegible] under cable advices quoting a decline [illegible]

Manufactured iron of all kinds more active; prices show an advancing tendency; common merchant bar quoted at 3½c for common.

At a meeting of the Western Iron Association yesterday at Pittsburg card rates for bar iron were [illegible] to 4c. This puts the price of puddling at $1 [illegible]

Pig lead—Very firm at 6c for [illegible]

[illegible] Plate—Good demand, very firm.

[illegible]—Quiet but firmly held at [illegible]

Boston Wool Market.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

BOSTON, Jan. 31.—The wool market during the week was much excited and prices again advanced, with large sales of both domestic and foreign, the total transactions amounting to 4,541,137 pounds. There was more or less speculation, but the bulk of sales was to manufacturers. If it were not for the extreme views of holders the sales of the past week would have been the largest on record. All available and desirable lots on spot and to arrive are taken at current rates, and prices will probably still further advance. Sales of washed fleeces were large, amounting for the week to 852,000 pounds, the stocks of which are much broken and round lots difficult to find except at an advance of 2@3c per pound. The demand for delaine and combing was good. Fall California wool was in better demand, the sales for the week being 365,000 pounds at 2@42c—an advance in some instances of two cents from the highest sales previously reported. There is no spring wool of any consequence in the market.

Other sales include Ohio, Pennsylvania and Virginia X, XX and No. 1 at [illegible]; Michigan X and medium, [illegible]; medium and No. 1 Wisconsin, [illegible]; New York No. 1 at [illegible]; Indiana No. 1 at 56c; washed fleeces, [illegible]; combing and delaine fleeces, [illegible]; unwashed combings, [illegible]; Oregon, eastern and valley, [illegible]; Texas, [illegible]; medium Missouri, [illegible]; medium Kentucky, [illegible]; territory, [illegible]; unwashed and merchantable fleeces, [illegible]; super and X pulled, [illegible]; [illegible] washed at [illegible]; scoured, [illegible]. Transactions in foreign amount to upwards of two million pounds for the whole Australian, to arrive, selling at [illegible]. Montevideo, [illegible]; English combing, [illegible].

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN

The Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast.

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL CHRONIC AND DIFFICULT DISEASES.

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHEA or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two thirds of all the Chronic diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down, and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat diseases, Skin diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint and all diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.

LANDS,

PEN D'OREILLE DIVISION.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY

Is now offering for sale nearly

5,000,000

Acres of its lands in the Pen d'Oreille Division in Eastern Oregon, which are comprised in the odd numbered sections for forty miles on each side of the railroad as now located from the mouth of Snake River, in Washington Territory, to Lake Pen d'Oreille, in Idaho. These lands, of unexcelled fertility and adapted to farming on any scale that may be desired, are offered by the Railroad Company at such price and terms as cannot fail to induce settlement and cultivation, causing a rapid growth in population of the country, and increase in value to those who now purchase.

The following Resolution of the Board of Directors of the Railroad Company, passed November 19th, 1879, fixes the cash price of land to actual settlers at two dollars and sixty cents per acre, which it is believed is a lower price than has ever been voluntarily placed upon its lands by any land grant company. This is, in fact, cheaper than the settler can purchase the same class of land of the Government under the pre-emption law, for the expense attending the making of final proof, and the journey to the land office which he must necessarily make in order to complete his entry, is more than the ten cents per acre added to the government price by the Railroad Company:

"Resolved, That the Agricultural Lands of the Company west of the Missouri river to Puget Sound shall be offered for sale to actual settlers at Government price of $2 60 per acre, with an addition thereto of ten cents per acre to be paid to the Company to reimburse it for the cost of selecting, surveying and conveying said land.

"This resolution does not apply to coal or iron lands, nor to lands chiefly valuable for timber, nor to lands required for town sites or suitable for manufacturing sites, nor in regions where water is scarce to lands containing springs or other natural supply, where it shall be for the interest of settlers at large that such water privileges shall not be exclusively held or controlled by any individual; nor to the lands required for the use of the Company in connection with the operation of the road."

To persons wishing to purchase on time, the remarkably low price of four dollars per acre is given on the following terms: One-fourth cash at time of purchase, the balance in three equal yearly payments at 7 per cent. interest. The above price for time sales is adopted for the present, but may be subject to change in the future.

All persons who have filed with the Railroad Company notices of intention to purchase, or "Settlers' Applications," as they are called, for land in this Division (except for the class of lands reserved by the terms of the resolution above given) and who have continued to reside upon or cultivate the land applied for, are requested to complete their purchase by making cash payment, or time contract, for the same. For this purpose application should be made to the Railroad Land Office at Colfax.

Persons who have not made actual settlement or improvement upon land they may have applied for, have no right to the first privilege of purchase; such lands will be sold to the first applicant. Those persons who have in good faith settled upon and improved the Company's land should lose no time in securing the same, as after a given time the land is subject to sale to any other person.

The land in this division being now offered for sale, no more "Settlers' Applications" will be filed. All communications respecting land in the following described Townships—

Treats all Chronic and Special Diseases

YOUNG MEN

WHO MAY BE SUFFERING FROM THE EFfects of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity. DR. SPINNEY will guarantee to forfeit $500 for every case of Seminal Weakness or private disease of any kind or character which he undertakes and fails to cure.

MIDDLE AGED MEN.

There are many at the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with too frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examining the urinary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found, and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin milkish hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Office Hours—10 to 4 and 6 to 8. Sundays from 10 to 11 A. M. Consultation free. Thorough examination and advice $5. Call or address
